Parachute Is Linked to Crashed Jet

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—A parachute was found in one engine of a KC135 jet tanker plane which crashed here Saturday, the head of the crash investigation board said today.

Brig. Gen. Murray A. Bywater checked with experts examining the craft's engines and said:

"The fact that this parachute is attached to the jet engine, it's their (the experts) preliminary opinion that its contributing to the cause of this accident is extremely remote.

The Oklahoma Journal in Oklahoma City, in a copyright story and photo, raised the question about whether a parachute may have been sucked into one of the engines. The Journal's photo showed what appeared to be a red parachute by the engine that was inspected by specialists.

The four engines of the wrecked plane were taken to Oklahoma City for examination. Thirty persons were killed when the jet tanker crashed into a Wichita residential district Saturday.

dinner dances and an inaugural concert by the National Symphony, there isn't an open moment on the schedule.

Almost everything, including the weather, seems set for the whole point of this business: the taking of the presidential oath in front of the Capitol at noon Wednesday. Only the inaugural address remains unfinished, and Johnson is expected to keep putting it off until a few hours before delivery time.

On that most important item, the weather, Johnson's luck appears to be holding out.

After hinting that it might snow on Johnson's great day, the weatherman backtracked and now sticks to the prediction that none is likely to fall. But the bitter cold will remain, making it rough on those who are in, or who are out watching, the 2½-hour parade.

Today's highlights include a reception for Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey, a reception for governors that will be so crowded the guests will be herded in three hourly shifts, and a dance and reception for Young Democrats.

An ardent Democrat, eager to fling, could have trouble deciding where to go.

A young party member from Indiana, for example, could take in the dance for Young Democrats, or go to his own state's inaugural ball, or drop by for the National Symphony's special concert. All three, and a half dozen other events, are running more or less simultaneously tonight.

Nearly everything to which the public is invited, by the way, has been sold out.

It is not known for certain how many events Johnson will attend.

Monday he got things off to a rousing start by joining in the fun at the Democratic gala, honoring party workers who helped keep Johnson in the White House.

The star-packed performance lasted more than two hours and the Johnsons appeared to enjoy every minute of it. They applauded loud and long during the show which was capped by a final chorus of "Hello Lyndon" by the entire cast.

Mrs. Johnson had done her bit earlier. She and Mrs. Humphrey had presided at a reception for distinguished ladies. They greeted about 5,000 women in the fountain courts of the National Gallery of Art—shaking hands and kissing old friends. Humphrey dropped by and shook hands for half an hour.

Ohio Women Urged To Join Drive

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An official of the Ohio Education Association (OEA), which wants to raise the state's sales tax one cent to get more school money, called on Ohio women today to put pressure on political leaders to get the job done.

Thomas G. O'Keefe, OEA executive director, termed the idea of "friendly persuasion." O'Keefe outlined his program at a breakfast meeting of Ohio delegates at the National Secondary School Principals Association convention here.

He also called for: —Enactment of the OEA's initiated bill to raise the sales tax. The bill is now before the Ohio General Assembly. The OEA estimates such a tax boost would add $116 million to state revenues. Gov. James A. Rhodes, however, says he is against any new or increased taxes.

Air Mail Proven To Be Too Slow

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Workers in the new Federal Building had been complaining that their air mail was slower than regular mail.

They were right, says Bert Seymour, post office superintendent of delivery. Seymour went to the 19th floor Monday. He dropped five regular-weight business envelopes and one light air-mail envelope into the mail chute.

He took the elevator down. He opened the mail box in the lobby. The five regular envelopes were there. The light air-mail envelope fluttered down before his eyes. Sometimes, occupants complained, the air-mail envelopes go up instead of down.

Taft Calls Dixie Support Of Barry 'Embarrassing'

CINCINNATI (AP)—The support that Barry Goldwater received from five southern states in the presidential election was "more of an embarrassment than a benefit to the (Republican) party," Robert Taft Jr. charged Monday night.

Taft was highly critical of Goldwater, the GOP candidate, in analyzing "why the Republican Party lost" in his first public appearance and speech since the November election. The big factors, he said, were civil rights and the division within the party.

"I believe the issue of civil rights and the Republican candidate's position, or lack of position on it, was more than any other factor, a dead cat hung around the elephant's neck that did devastating damage in all areas except in the south," he said at a Cincinnati Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting.

"The support from the south that was received because of the candidate's position, therefore, turned out to be more of an embarrassment than a benefit to the party," he added.

In giving his post-mortem of the Republican defeat, Taft called for formation of a permanent policy-forming committee to regroup and revitalize the Republican Party.

Taft, who supported the civil rights bill as Ohio's congressman-at-large last year, lost in his attempt to unseat Democratic incumbent Stephen M. Young in the Senate race last November.

His defeat was blamed by the Ripon Society, a GOP research group, on Goldwater's candidacy. The society, in issuing an "election '64" survey of the Republican loss Monday, also blamed Goldwater for the loss of four Ohio U.S. representatives seats held by Republicans.

Taft said a policy-forming committee is needed to determine "party policy on a day to day basis."

"The 1964 experiences of the Republican Party should surely stand out as an everlasting example of the difficulties that can arise from the lack of a policy-forming body," he said.

Atomic Mine Belt Story Said False

MOSCOW (AP) — A sharp Soviet protest against a reported West German proposal to lay an 800-mile nuclear mine belt across Europe has drawn a U.S. State Department reply that no such plans exist.

The Soviet news agency Tass said protest notes were given U.S. Ambassador Foy Kohler and West German Ambassador Horst Grepper as well as to the British and French envoys.

The notes said a nuclear mine belt would menace millions of lives and immeasurably increase the dangers of nuclear conflict in Europe. West German authorities are reported to have suggested the mine belt at last month's NATO Council meeting in Paris.

U.S. and British defense experts were said at the time to have dismissed the scheme as wildly impractical.

Following the Soviet protest, a State Department spokesman in Washington said "there are no plans for the emplacement" of any atomic mine belt along West Germany's eastern border.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's doctor said just before noon — 7 a.m. EST — today there had been no further deterioration in the former prime minister's condition.

Churchill's physician, Lord Moran, said he would issue another medical bulletin about 9 p.m. — 4 p.m. EST.

Lord Moran had been called to Churchill's bedside at 2:10 a.m. and spent five hours there. He reported shortly after 7 a.m. that Churchill had spent a very restless night and his condition had deteriorated.

At 11:45 a.m., the 82-year-old physician issued this bulletin after another visit to his patient:

"In the four hours since the last bulletin, there has been no further deterioration."

A spokesman for the British Medical Association had said after the early morning bulletin that he thought "for the next two days things would deteriorate rapidly."

Moran's midday bulletin was the 10th issued since the 90-year-old statesman suffered a stroke last Friday. None has reported any improvement, and most have told of a gradual slackening of Sir Winston's hold on life.

Commenting on the earlier bulletin, the medical association spokesman said:

"I think one must view with a good deal of concern that it was necessary for Lord Moran to stay during the night. I think there must have been extreme anxiety about his condition. This is even worse than we have had all the time."

With death apparently drawing near for the great wartime leader, political leaders began canceling normal activities.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson postponed a statement to the House of Commons and a telecast tonight on the nation's trade situation. He was reported seeking to put off a visit to West Germany Thursday.

Churchill's Conservative party called off a telecast Wednesday. The House of Commons postponed until June the scheduled Wednesday celebration of the 700th anniversary of Simon de Montfort's Parliament, from which British democracy grew. Queen Elizabeth II returned to London from her Christmas vacation at Sandringham.

Lord Avon, who as Sir Anthony Eden was Churchill's chief deputy for 15 years and his successor as prime minister in 1955, cut short a vacation in Barbados and arrived in London with his wife. Sir Winston is Lady Avon's uncle.

Lady Churchill, 79, was near her husband's bedside, comforted by their youngest daughter, Mary, wife of former Cabinet minister Christopher Soames.

Robots Fly In Capsule

Vehicle Lofted 105 Miles Up

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Project Gemini spacecraft carrying a pair of mechanical simulated astronauts successfully rocketed over a scorching 16,600 miles an hour course today and parachuted to a landing in the Atlantic about 2,150 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

The flight, which subjected the spacecraft to maximum re-entry heat, was a crucial forerunner of an attempt to launch astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young into orbit in a similar capsule in April.

It was planned as the last unmanned flight of the series.

A Titan 2 rocket propelled the 6,900-pound craft skyward at 9:03 a.m. Nineteen minutes later it landed in the intended impact area about 17 miles from the main recovery ship, the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain.

Ohio Cold Wave In Its 5th Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio's cold wave went into the fifth day today with a forecast of fresh snow and continued cold.

The forecast gave little hope that the blanket of snow which has covered the state since Friday would be unraveling.

Northern Ohio, hardest hit with depths from 4 to 18 inches on the ground, is scheduled to get more, the weatherman said. The forecast called for light snow in northern Ohio, spreading to the south by evening. Highs today were predicted at 16-22 north and 20-27 south with not quite so cold tonight.

The mercury dropped to 6 below zero at Lockbourne Air Force Base near Columbus; Cincinnati had minus 4, Columbus minus 1, and Akron and Youngstown 1 above at daybreak.

Lows tonight will range from 12-22 degrees, the weather bureau said.

Wednesday's forecast was for cold with snow flurries in north and east Ohio.

The midwinter chill pushed temperatures well below freezing across northern Florida and down to the low 40s even in the far south, Tallahassee, in the north, registered a low of 23 and it was 43 at Miami.

The Midwest was struck with near-zero weather and officials in Indiana struggled to recover from a 12-inch snowstorm that virtually paralyzed the state over the weekend.

Snow fell over stricken Indiana again Monday, where 12 inches fell over the weekend, drifted to 10 feet and left at least 28 persons dead.

The temperature dipped to around zero today. An official said it would take all the city crews working around the clock until Feb. 1 to clear the snow from the 375 miles of main streets in Indianapolis.

Skies cleared in the Northwest, but airplanes and residents had a rough day Monday. Motorists had trouble finding their way home in northern Utah valleys because of fog. Visibility at Salt Lake City airport has been zero since early Sunday.

'Radioactive' Cow Is Aided

CLEVELAND (AP)—Specialists at the Cleveland Clinic are using the product of a "radioactive cow," combined with wild cherry syrup, in an effort to quickly find possible traces of cancer in patients.

The mixture, taken orally or intravenously, allows a safer and quicker scanning of vital organs which may be malignant. Dr. Antonio Rodriguez-Antunez, director of radiation therapy and the isotope department at the clinic, said Monday.

"We can do in 10 or 12 minutes what has taken us a half-hour," the doctor said. "We also get a better scan."

Radioactive scanning devices properly manned and interpreted will outline a tumor, showing both size and shape.

Bell Plans Using Tax To Expand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. plans to use federal income tax savings to step up the utility's expansion and modernization program, President Claude M. Blair said here Monday night.

Blair discussed a statewide Ohio Bell program for 1965 of $106 million, to be spent for improvement and expansion of facilities.

The company president, saying any rate reduction for telephone customers is not in the picture, added that Ohio Bell is interested in investing more money for improved customer services and in providing more jobs. "Wages have gone up as taxes have gone down," he said.

Air Guard Tankers To Get Improvements

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Eleven KC-97 tanker aircraft of the Ohio Air National Guard's 160th Air Refueling Group based at Clinton County Air Force Base here, are to be modernized.

Each of the four-engine propeller driven strato tankers will get two surplus J47 jet engines and improved radar equipment. This will give the air guard tankers the speed, altitude and rendezvous capability for refueling jets, officials said.

Antipoverty Aide Named For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Office of Opportunity, a part of the federal government's antipoverty program, is in business with Albert G. Giles, an assistant highway director, moving to the helm.

Gov. James A. Rhodes announced Monday that Giles has been appointed as full-time director of the office at $16,000 a year. Giles leaves a $13,000 annual job.

Giles and a staff of aides will be paid from a $213,000 federal allocation to which Ohio will add $36,000 worth of services. The Ohio office will help counties and local communities participate in the program.

Giles said his office will be in the Ohio Development Department and will provide technical assistance to counties and communities which will apply directly for federal funds. Federal approval is subject to final sanction by the governor, who can veto projects, Giles said.

The state already has been granted $1.6 million directly to local communities which have set up technical assistance projects under the $800 million, nine-month federal program.

Snow fell over stricken Indiana again Monday, where 12 inches fell over the weekend, drifted to 10 feet and left at least 28 persons dead.

The temperature dipped to around zero today. An official said it would take all the city crews working around the clock until Feb. 1 to clear the snow from the 375 miles of main streets in Indianapolis.

Skies cleared in the Northwest, but airplanes and residents had a rough day Monday. Motorists had trouble finding their way home in northern Utah valleys because of fog. Visibility at Salt Lake City airport has been zero since early Sunday.

'Radioactive' Cow Is Aided

CLEVELAND (AP)—Specialists at the Cleveland Clinic are using the product of a "radioactive cow," combined with wild cherry syrup, in an effort to quickly find possible traces of cancer in patients.

The mixture, taken orally or intravenously, allows a safer and quicker scanning of vital organs which may be malignant. Dr. Antonio Rodriguez-Antunez, director of radiation therapy and the isotope department at the clinic, said Monday.

"We can do in 10 or 12 minutes what has taken us a half-hour," the doctor said. "We also get a better scan."

Radioactive scanning devices properly manned and interpreted will outline a tumor, showing both size and shape.

Birch Society Collects $3.2 Million in 1964

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The John Birch Society in 1964 nearly doubled its 1963 gross income, says its national public relations director.

John Roussetot said Monday the $3.2 million collected came almost entirely from membership dues and contributions.

Bell Plans Using Tax To Expand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. plans to use federal income tax savings to step up the utility's expansion and modernization program, President Claude M. Blair said here Monday night.

Blair discussed a statewide Ohio Bell program for 1965 of $106 million, to be spent for improvement and expansion of facilities.

The company president, saying any rate reduction for telephone customers is not in the picture, added that Ohio Bell is interested in investing more money for improved customer services and in providing more jobs. "Wages have gone up as taxes have gone down," he said.

prison. He marked his 40th birthday just nine days ago.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to hear Estes' appeal from a 15-year prison sentence for mail fraud. U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason, who presided for the 1963 trial in El Paso, then revoked the bankrupt promoter's $100,000 appeal bond.

The former West Texas promoter, who spent much of his spare time as a lay preacher in the Church of Christ, had been battling since March 29, 1962, to avoid going to prison.

That was the date federal agents first arrested Estes, then living at Pecos and reputed to be worth $50 million. His top-heavy financial empire of anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) sales, grain storage and big-scale cotton growing collapsed, and there were echoes in Wall Street and Washington.

That fall he drew an eight-year prison term on a state court conviction at Tyler of swindling — still being appealed, and on March 28, 1963, jurors found him guilty of mail fraud and conspiracy in the El Paso trial.

Testimony brought out that Estes had persuaded dozens of individuals to sign mortgages on steel ammonia tanks and thus lend him their personal credit, with the explanation his own was overtaxed and he needed money for rapidly expanding operations. In turn he discounted the mortgages and sold them to some of the nation's biggest loan companies, meanwhile paying the mortgage signers monthly rental on the tanks which matched their payments to the loan firms.

Prosecutors produced evidence that Estes and his associates obtained mortgages totaling $34.5 million on 33,500 such tanks — many times over the number farmers could have used in the area where he operated. It was established that only a handful of tanks ever were built and delivered.

At one point Estes testified in bankruptcy proceedings that he held only $20 million in assets and his debts aggregated $36 million.

Three Estes associates pleaded guilty and were sentenced to prison on the same fraud and conspiracy charges of which he eventually was convicted.

Arraignment In Slayings Set

Daniel Ealey, 47, Williamsport, will be arraigned tomorrow in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court on first-degree murder charges.

Ealey, indicted by the Grand Jury for the Dec. 23 slaying of Emanuel Baldwin and Gail Lewis following a quarrel in a Williamsport apartment building, is scheduled to appear before the court at 10 a. m.

A panel of three judges will preside at the open court arraignment. According to Ealey's attorney, Emory Smith of Portsmouth, the accused killer will enter a plea of guilty to general homicide. The court will determine the degree of homicide and sentence Ealey at the close of the evidence presented by Prosecutor Robert H. Huffer and the defense counsel.

Judge William Ammer indicated today that the court session will extend into the afternoon and will probably be concluded tomorrow.

Hearing the evidence from the bench, in addition to Judge Ammer, will be Judge Merlin Paret of Fairfield County and Judge C. W. Smith of Vinton County.

Three Estes associates pleaded guilty and were sentenced to prison on the same fraud and conspiracy charges of which he eventually was convicted.

Solons Study Rewiring for Courthouse

Plans for electrical rewiring at the Courthouse came under discussion at yesterday's meeting of the Pickaway County Board of Commissioners.

The solons reviewed the project with Ned Young, local electrical contractor. He was authorized to prepare plans for work considered necessary.

Solons Study Rewiring for Courthouse

According to the commissioners, the actual rewiring probably will be done in stages until the power system is deemed adequate.

In other business, the county fathers accepted a bid to install inlaid linoleum in the upstairs bath of the residence portion of the County Jail. The contract was awarded to Robert E. Dumm of Circleville for a cost of $65.

retrieve the capsule.

The Titan 2 hurled the spacecraft to an altitude of 105 miles. Then mechanical black boxes riding the seats automatically sent signals to the control system to flip the capsule around 180 degrees so that its blunt protective heat shield was in position to absorb the re-entry heat.

These electronic crewmen then sent signals to separate an adapter section at the base of the capsule and to trigger four braking rockets. On orbital flights these rockets will serve to slow the capsule from orbital speed so it can return to earth. They were not necessary on today's flight but were fired for testing purposes.

At an altitude of 10,800 feet on the way down, an 18-foot diameter stabilizing parachute opened. The 84-foot main chute unfurled at 9,000 feet and lowered the craft into the sea at about 30 feet a second.

Navy swimmers leaped from one of the helicopters and secured the capsule with an inflatable flotation collar. Then they waited in a life raft for the Lake Champlain to reach the scene.

Grissom, who made a sub-orbital space flight in Project Mercury; Young and several other astronauts who one day may make Gemini trips, followed the progress of the launching from the flight control center. The craft which Grissom and Young are to ride into space already is at Cape Kennedy undergoing checks.

Warm Reception Given Johnson Defense Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has given President Johnson's $49-billion defense program a generally warm reception.

Some Democrats and Republicans, however, expressed misgivings on the lack of plans for new manned bombers.

Shortly after the message went to Congress Monday, the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee announced plans to invite Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to joint hearings, probably early in February, to present details not given in the message.

The huge program would cost $300 million less than the Pentagon's estimated $49.3 billion spending in the fiscal year ending June 30 and $2.3 billion less than last year.

Johnson outlined three major new weapon systems designed to beef up this armed might.

— The Poseidon, a new missile system with twice the power of the Polaris A3, whose nuclear warhead can deliver a blast equal to 800,000 tons of TNT on a target nearly 29,000 miles away.

— A series of what Johnson called "remarkable new payloads" for strategic missiles.

— A new short-range attack missile — SRAM — which could be fired from B52s or other bombers.

The President said he would request more than $300 million to continue a program of extending the life and improving the effectiveness of B52 bombers. He announced plans to eliminate two squadrons of early model B52s which he termed the "least effective" of the eight generations of these jet intercontinental bomber planes.

In the field of conventional war preparedness, Johnson said he planned to start development of the C5A cargo transport, capable of carrying 750 men at a time. He also announced plans for large-scale procurement of both the controversial F111, formerly known as the TFX, as a standard fighter, and a new type Navy attack aircraft.

He said construction of four nuclear-powered attack submarines and 10 destroyers also would start under the new program.

When the FPC announced the United Fuel rate change last Dec. 31, the gas company estimated the change would reduce the South Bloomfield rate about one per cent per thousand cubic feet.

The lower gas rate will apply to all bills on and after Jan. 31 — for gas consumed in January.

Scioto Farmer Is Fined for Feeding Garbage

Delbert Neff, a Scioto Twp. farmer, was handed a fine of $100 and costs for feeding garbage to hogs without a permit.

The sentence was handed down today in Circleville Municipal Court by Judge Sterling M. Lamb. He suspended $50 of the fine and placed Neff on probation for a period of one year.

The charges were filed in the court by Dr. James R. Bridenstine, an official of the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Bridenstine said Neff was feeding cooked garbage to hogs, but lacked the proper facilities to ensure a sanitary operation. For that reason the state department would not grant a permit.

prison. He marked his 40th birthday just nine days ago.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to hear Estes' appeal from a 15-year prison sentence for mail fraud, U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason, who presided for the 1963 trial in El Paso, then revoked the bankrupt promoter's $100,000 appeal bond.

The former West Texas promoter, who spent much of his spare time as a lay preacher in the Church of Christ, had been battling since March 29, 1962, to avoid going to prison.

That was the date federal agents first arrested Estes, then living at Pecos and reputed to be worth $50 million. His top-heavy financial empire of anhydrous ammonia (fertilizer) sales, grain storage and big-scale cotton growing collapsed, and there were echoes in Wall Street and Washington.

That fall he drew an eight-year prison term on a state court conviction at Tyler of swindling — still being appealed, and on March 28, 1963, jurors found him guilty of mail fraud and conspiracy in the El Paso trial.

Testimony brought out that Estes had persuaded dozens of individuals to sign mortgages on steel ammonia tanks and thus lend him their personal credit, with the explanation his own was overtaxed and he needed money for rapidly expanding operations. In turn he discounted the mortgages and sold them to some of the nation's biggest loan companies, meanwhile paying the mortgage signers monthly rental on the tanks which matched their payments to the loan firms.

Prosecutors produced evidence that Estes and his associates obtained mortgages totaling $34.5 million on 33,500 such tanks — many times over the number farmers could have used in the area where he operated. It was established that only a handful of tanks ever were built and delivered.

At one point Estes testified in bankruptcy proceedings that he held only $20 million in assets and his debts aggregated $36 million.

Three Estes associates pleaded guilty and were sentenced to prison on the same fraud and conspiracy charges of which he eventually was convicted.

Philos Confers
Rank on Two Men

The rank of esquire was conferred on Charles Tomlinson Jr. and Walter Payne last night by Philos Lodge No. 64, Knights of Pythias.

Knight rank will be bestowed on the two candidates next Monday. Visitors from Ashville and Stoutsville were present for last night's event.

Lunch was served following the ceremony by a committee composed of Frank Woodward Jr., George Mast and Fred Brown.

Named to serve on the lunch committee for the Knight Rank by Chancellor Commander Charles Winner were Walden Reichelderfer, chairman, John Pontious and Raymond Barr.

Arraignment In Slayings Set

Daniel Ealey, 47, Williamsport, will be arraigned tomorrow in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court on first-degree murder charges.

Ealey, indicted by the Grand Jury for the Dec. 23 slaying of Emanuel Baldwin and Gail Lewis following a quarrel in a Williamsport apartment building, is scheduled to appear before the court at 10 a. m.

A panel of three judges will preside at the open court arraignment. According to Ealey's attorney, Emory Smith of Portsmouth, the accused killer will enter a plea of guilty to general homicide. The court will determine the degree of homicide and sentence Ealey at the close of the evidence presented by Prosecutor Robert H. Huffer and the defense counsel.

Judge William Ammer indicated today that the court session will extend into the afternoon and will probably be concluded tomorrow.

Hearing the evidence from the bench, in addition to Judge Ammer, will be Judge Merlin Paret of Fairfield County and Judge C. W. Smith of Vinton County.

Three Estes associates pleaded guilty and were sentenced to prison on the same fraud and conspiracy charges of which he eventually was convicted.

Pancake, Sausage Breakfast Attended by 100 Persons

More than 100 persons were present today for a sausage and Pancake Breakfast sponsored by the Smith - Douglass Fertilizer Co. and the Pickaway Fertilizer Service at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

Taking part in the session were county farmers and their wives and community civic leaders and businessmen. A portion of the program was devoted to drought conditions and how they affect fertilizer use.

Nelson Stevens, sales supervisor here for Smith - Douglass, served as toastmaster. He introduced guests and presented the program on drought conditions here.

The breakfast was prepared and served by members of the Smith - Douglass staff, including executive Ray Hunt.

Robots Fly

retrieve the capsule.

The Titan 2 hurled the spacecraft at an altitude of 105 miles. Then mechanical black boxes riding the seats automatically sent signals to the control system to flip the capsule around 180 degrees so that its blunt protective heat shield was in position to absorb the re-entry heat.

These electronic crewmen then sent signals to separate an adapter section at the base of the capsule and to trigger four braking rockets. On orbital flights these rockets will serve to slow the capsule from orbital speed so it can return to earth. They were not necessary on today's flight but were fired for testing purposes.

At an altitude of 10,600 feet on the way down, an 18-foot diameter stabilizing parachute opened. The 84-foot main chute unfurled at 9,000 feet and lowered the craft into the sea at about 30 feet a second.

Navy swimmers leaped from one of the helicopters and secured the capsule with an inflatable flotation collar. Then they waited in a life raft for the Lake Champlain to reach the scene.

Grissom, who made a suborbital space flight in Project Mercury; Young and several other astronauts who one day may make Gemini trips, followed the progress of the launching from the flight control center. The craft which Grissom and Young are to ride into space already is at Cape Kennedy undergoing checks.

Andy Griffith Decides On Sixth Television Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fans of Andy Griffith's bucolic humor can relax — he'll be back on television for another year.

Griffith announced today that he plans to return to his regular Monday night spot on CBS for a sixth season. The decision came after a year of soul searching. He even consulted a psychiatrist about it — but as a friend, not a patient.

The North Carolinian was talking about his decision on Stage 1 at the Desilu Caruena Studios, where he has spent a large chunk of the past five years. That's the place "The Andy Griffith Show" is filmed, and he admitted that sometimes the surroundings begin to wear on him.

Why will he remain? Not just for the money. Five years of a television show is usually enough to make a star a millionaire, and the sixth is merely frosting on the annuities.

"I'm staying not for the pay," he remarked. "I can work somewhere else and make a living, no doubt about that."

"For more than a year I've been asking people I work with and friends that I trust whether I should remain on the show for another year. In every case they said yes, and with different reasons. Still, I wasn't satisfied."

"Finally I talked to a friend of mine who is both a psychiatrist and a psychologist and is out of show business. Between the two of us we figured out the reason why I should stay."

"It's simply this: I am a fairly active sort of a man; I am happiest when I am working. Why, we just had a two-week vacation at the end of the year and I was just aching to get back to work before the first week was three-fourths over."

"I've got a steady job where I know I can work every week. So why shouldn't I stay with it?"

Natural Gas Topic for Contractors

The versatile role natural gas plays in modern industry will be described by Miss Carolyn Duell of Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc., when she speaks before the Pickaway County Contractors Assn. at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow.

A highlight of the meeting, scheduled at Tink's, will be the showing of the gas industry's newest, full-color motion picture "Energy on the Move."

To demonstrate some of the unusual uses of natural gas in the industrial world, Miss Duell will display several products in which gas plays an important role. In addition she will be dressed from hat to shoes in a natural gas outfit, and will explain how natural gas is used to make modern clothing.

Disney Film Slated Saturday by PTA

A full-length Walt Disney feature will be presented Saturday at Nicholas Drive School by the school's Parent-Teacher Assn. The movie, titled, "Ichabod and Mr. Toad", will be shown at 1 and 3 p.m. for school-age children. A nominal admission fee will be charged.

Howard Davies, chairman of the PTA event, announced that popcorn and candy would also be offered for sale.

Ask Scout for Help

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Raymond Perez of Springboro was driving back to his home from Cincinnati when he decided to take a different route, to see the state's tallest bridge.

Perez, a school official, crossed the bridge at Oregonia, then took a county road he thought led back to Springboro.

But it didn't and he was lost. He saw a troop of Boy Scouts marching along the road, however, and figured he was saved. "I'm lost, boys," Perez told them. "I don't know where I am."

The boys replied, "Sorry, sir, we're lost, too."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill was doused in the English language because his teachers thought he was stupid and English was all he was fit for. It turned out to be a good fit.

His father, Rudolph, an erratic man, thought he was stupid, too. His parents, strangely indifferent about him, kept him in boarding schools from the time he was 7 until he was 21.

No wonder, with this disregard and this loneliness, he spent his life in search of recognition, first in trying to attract attention but always in trying to assert himself, to be in charge.

Since this is not the prescribed way for winning friends and influencing people, he was unpopular in school, in the army, and in politics where his own Conservatives distrusted his judgment and suspected his motives.

Even his fellow - aristocrats slammed their doors when he attacked the privileges of the rich. If he had died before he was 65 he would have been a political failure, hardly more than a footnote in history.

But for five years, from 65 to 70, he was put in charge of the war against Hitler. This was enough. His desire to prevail paid off handsomely for him, England and the world.

It was his eloquence, just as much as his leadership, which made him in just five years one of the shining figures of history. All this had its roots in his school days.

He wasn't dumb. He said years later: "Where my reason or my imagination or interest were not engaged, I would not or could not learn. I should have liked to be asked what I knew. They always tried to ask what I did not know."

Not long ago, the British scientist, C. P. Snow said Churchill must have had an IQ as high as anyone could wish. But his teachers thought he was one of the slow ones.

They let the bright boys cut their teeth on Latin and Greek but they put the slow ones in the lowest grades and drilled them in English. And this Churchill loved.

Looking back at 51, he wrote: "Even as a schoolboy I questioned the aptness of the classics for the prime structure of our education. So they told me how Mr. Gladstone (prime minister when Churchill was growing up) read Homer for fun, which I thought served him right."

His grades weren't good enough to get him into college. He went into the army. But at 22 he felt he was a social, political and historical boob. He decided to educate himself.

"It was a curious education," he wrote, "first, because I approached it with an empty, hungry mind, and with fairly strong jaws, and what I got I bit."

He read eight volumes of Edward Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," then Thomas Babington Macaulay's "History of England," and went on from there.

Churchill, consciously or not, patterned himself after Gibbon, as he showed in what he wrote later, and it was a lot: 30 books, including a history of England and histories of the two world wars. He finished at 82.

By the use of the "of" clause — like "of mankind" — and of adjectives that flashed or smoldered, the two men could turn the language into thunder over Mt. Sinai.

NEW YORK (AP)—Strangest title for a series this season is NBC's "Sneak Preview," consisting of several variety specials. The second one reached television screens Monday night with the accompaniment of the network's loudest promotional drums.

It was Allan Sherman's "Fun-nyland," another title which seems strange if only because it challenges the viewer to find the show amusing. However, it was a bright and often witty hour, mostly because of the gentle satire of Sherman.

Sherman, star and executive producer of the show, recently jumped from comedy writer and television producer to performer and an engaging one he is. One of his greatest assets is that so far he has not acquired a slick professional style.

Sherman and his playmates lightly took apart a variety of subjects.

It was not all understated humor. With guest stars Lorne Greene, Angie Dickinson and Jack Gilford, he played a musical alphabet game which, at one low moment had Greene demanding that Sherman sing a song starting with the letters S, V, and F.

"S, V, F no bananas," warbled the star.

All together, though, it was several cuts above the average television variety show.

Earlier in the evening CBS attempted to stir up extra interest in its two back-to-back panel shows "To Tell the Truth" and "I've Got a Secret," by switching the panels.

Both panels functioned efficiently and amusingly like the professional entertainers they are, but it was hardly exciting. Recommended tonight: Telephone Hour, NBC, 10-11 EST — with Lena Horne and Robert Merrill.

Rhodes Bond Issue Slated To Aid Expansion of Parks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Passage of the Rhodes administration's $290 million bond issue proposal would put Ohio in "fine" shape to take advantage of federal matching funds for parks and recreational facilities, a state official says.

"We could receive every dollar that is available which probably would amount to around $4 million a year under the new federal land and conservation act," said Robert W. Teater, assistant director of the Department of Natural Resources.

About $100 million of the bond issue, which will go before voters in the May primary, would be earmarked for improvement and expansion of Ohio's parks, recreation, and water facilities.

Teater said other states generally would not be in such a favorable position to take full advantage of 50-50 matching funds because of various welfare, educational, and other costly programs.

The Natural Resources Department will unveil next week its plans for spending the proposed $100 million over a six-year period.

While details of the plan will not be ready "for a week or 10 days," Teater disclosed that it will call primarily for expansions and improvements at existing facilities.

He mentioned a few of the projects, the biggest of which would be development of the long-talked-about Salt Fork reservoir in Guernsey County.

He said the state, if funds become available, will develop the 20,000-acre site at an "ultimate" cost of $12 million. Facilities would include boat mar-inas and fishing areas for the 3,000-acre reservoir. The remaining 17,000 acres would include a public hunting area, lodges, trails, and possibly a golf course.

Teater mentioned some others he said are in the "$2 million to $3 million" category. These were the West Branch reservoir near Ravenna, Geneva-on-the-Lake, Houston Woods in Butler and Preble counties, Hocking Hills in southeastern Ohio, and Indian Lake near Russell Point.

Andy Griffith Decides On Sixth Television Year

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fans of Andy Griffith's bucolic humor can relax — he'll be back on television for another year.

Griffith announced today that he plans to return to his regular Monday night spot on CBS for a sixth season. The decision came after a year of soul searching. He even consulted a psychiatrist about it — but as a friend, not a patient.

The North Carolinian was talking about his decision on Stage 1 at the Desilu Caruena Studios, where he has spent a large chunk of the past five years. That's the place "The Andy Griffith Show" is filmed, and he admitted that sometimes the surroundings begin to wear on him.

Why will he remain?

Not just for the money. Five years of a television show is usually enough to make a star a millionaire, and the sixth is merely frosting on the annuities.

"I'm staying not for the pay," he remarked. "I can work somewhere else and make a living, no doubt about that."

"For more than a year I've been asking people I work with and friends that I trust whether I should remain on the show for another year. In every case they said yes, and with different reasons. Still, I wasn't satisfied."

"Finally I talked to a friend of mine who is both a psychiatrist and a psychologist and is out of show business. Between the two of us we figured up the reason why I should stay."

"It's simply this: I am a fairly active sort of a man; I am happiest when I am working. Why, we just had a two-week vacation at the end of the year and I was just achin' to get back to work before the first week was three-fourths over."

"I've got a steady job where I know I can work every week. So why shouldn't I stay with it?"

Howard Davies, chairman of the PTA event, announced that popcorn and candy would also be offered for sale.

Ask Scout for Help

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Raymond Perez of Springboro was driving back to his home from Cincinnati when he decided to take a different route, to see the state's tallest bridge.

Perez, a school official, crossed the bridge at Oregonia, then took a county road he thought led back to Springboro.

But it didn't and he was lost.

He saw a troop of Boy Scouts marching along the road, however, and figured he was saved.

"I'm lost, boys," Perez told them. "I don't know where I am."

The boys replied, "Sorry, sir, we're lost, too."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill was doused in the English language because his teachers thought he was stupid and English was all he was fit for. It turned out to be a good fit.

His father, Rudolph, an erratic man, thought he was stupid, too. His parents, strangely indifferent about him, kept him in boarding schools from the time he was 7 until he was 21.

No wonder, with this disregard and this loneliness, he spent his life in search of recognition, first in trying to attract attention but always in trying to assert himself, to be in charge.

Since this is not the prescribed way for winning friends and influencing people, he was unpopular in school, in the army, and in politics where his own Conservatives distrusted his judgment and suspected his motives.

Even his fellow - aristocrats slammed their doors when he attacked the privileges of the rich. If he had died before he was 65 he would have been a political failure, hardly more than a footnote in history.

But for five years, from 65 to 70, he was put in charge of the war against Hitler. This was enough. His desire to prevail paid off handsomely for him, England and the world.

It was his eloquence, just as much as his leadership, which made him in just five years one of the shining figures of history. All this had its roots in his school days.

He wasn't dumb. He said years later: "Where my reason or my imagination or interest were not engaged, I would not or could not learn. I should have liked to be asked what I knew. They always tried to ask what I did not know."

Not long ago, the British scientist, C. P. Snow said Churchill must have had an IQ as high as anyone could wish. But his teachers thought he was one of the slow ones.

They let the bright boys cut their teeth on Latin and Greek but they put the slow ones in the lowest grades and drilled them in English. And this Churchill loved.

Ohio Women's College Given Service Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Western College for Women in Oxford, Ohio, has won a distinguished service award from the Institute of International Education and the Reader's Digest Foundation.

The award, for international education, was announced Monday night. Accepting was the president of the college, Dr. Herrick B. Young.

Bishop's Downfall

ST. ALBANS, England (AP)—When the Rt. Rev. Albert John Trillo, 49, Anglican bishop of Bedford, blessed the county fire headquarters he finally fell to a temptation resisted since boy-hood.

Grasping the firemen's turnout pole firmly with arms and legs, he slid sedately to the ground.

By James Marlow

Looking back at 51, he wrote: "Even as a schoolboy I questioned the aptness of the classics for the prime structure of our education. So they told me how Mr. Gladstone (prime minister when Churchill was growing up) read Homer for fun, which I thought served him right."

His grades weren't good enough to get him into college. He went into the army. But at 22 he felt he was a social, political and historical boob. He decided to educate himself.

"It was a curious education," he wrote, "first, because I approached it with an empty, hungry mind, and with fairly strong jaws, and what I got I bit."

He read eight volumes of Edward Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," then Thomas Babington Macaulay's "History of England," and went on from there.

Churchill, consciously or not, patterned himself after Gibbon, as he showed in what he wrote later, and it was a lot: 30 books, including a history of England and histories of the two world wars. He finished at 82.

By the use of the "of" clause — like "of mankind" — and of adjectives that flashed or smoldered, the two men could turn the language into thunder over Mt. Sinai.

With Churchill, as with Gibbon, nouns and adjectives hand in hand, tripped down the pages like a bridal pair in splendid ceremony.

But all of Churchill's reading and memorizing would not have been enough to make him remembered as a writer without something else.

He had an artist's glistening sense of life and a romantic's sense of drama, plus a special ear for the language. He could make a phrase look as happy as a puppy with a porkchop.

Sometimes his sentences sound as wistful as the wheels of a wagon-train or as robust as a platoon with drums in a shuttered street at three in the morning.

His teachers, who thought they had scrutinized his mind, forgot to examine his ears.

Sukarno's Fame

As much as any nation in the world Indonesia owes its existence to the United Nations and to the assistance of some of its individual members.

It was UN intervention that hastened the withdrawal of the Dutch from their East Indies empire and arranged plebiscites that enabled Sukarno to collect islands of diverse ethnic populations into a vast neocolonial holding. No fewer than 13 specialized agencies of the UN have helped combat disease, reduce illiteracy and improve crop production to feed the islands' needy millions.

Since 1950, the United States has contributed half a billion dollars' worth of material aid, supplied tons of surplus food, provided trained personnel to combat malaria and trained Indonesian police and military officers.

Now Sukarno has decided all of these benefactors "can go to hell." This decision cannot be explained by any possible threat Malaysia may hold for Indonesia, which dwarfs the founding federation in size and military strength. Nor can it be regarded as an impetuous act resulting from injury to Sukarno's enormous ego.

Sukarno has chosen to play Red China's game. The signs have been evident for some time. Since renouncing U. S. aid last March, Sukarno has announced his sympathy for North Viet Nam and declared himself the brother-in-arms to Mao Tze-tung.

At home he has outlawed the two political parties hostile to the Chinese-oriented communist party, Indonesia's largest with two million members. Advocates of alignment with Peking have gained ascendancy in his cabinet.

Justifiable alarm has been expressed by Malaysia. No less must be the concern of every nation which can detect in Sukarno's decision a move toward war.

Senate Referee

Parliamentary codes of procedure are intended to maintain "the gentlemanly character of politics," by seeing that public business is conducted with decorum and in fairness to all.

They don't always work that way because they can also be exploited in such petty detail as to delay legislation and otherwise serve special strategies. This, together with the complexity of the rules, calls for expert enforcement to keep business at least within the bounds of technical propriety.

Enforcement is a refereeing job, and in the U. S. Senate much of this duty has been performed in the last 41 years by a gentleman whose name seldom saw print unless there was a tough decision. He is Charles L. Watkins, whose retirement as Senate parliamentarian at the age of 85 is a new reminder of the important role played in government by unobtrusive advisers who only sit beside the thrones of power.

Fat Man Is Blubbery Yo-Yo

NEW YORK (AP) — I haven't broiled the cat yet, but I may any day.

She's looking more appetizing all the time. Every time I stare at her I no longer see a purring pet. To my famished gaze she has become a fur-covered bundle of protein.

Whenever I say "Kitty, kitty" to her, she backs away cautiously or climbs to the highest point in the room. She senses one of her nine lives may be in danger.

Of course, I actually probably wouldn't eat a cat — yet. I've only been on my diet since the first of the year.

The two greatest crimes in America today are growing old and growing fat — and I'm guilty of both. There isn't much a fellow can do about getting younger, but everybody says, "Well, at least you can take off weight — anybody can do that." Science has found out that 30 per cent of men get heavier after 25. My own weight leaped from a nimble 165 at that age to a heavy-breathing 210 last Christmas — a gain of better than a pound a year.

The worst thing about being fat, however, isn't that it makes you feel physically uncomfortable — it's that it makes you feel unpatriotic. Everybody accuses you of letting down yourself, your country and the human race.

They point out that Britain has been saved many times by its "thin red line of heroes," never by a fat red line of heroes.

But they bend history to serve their own ends. I maintain plumpness can be patriotic.

Take for example the little boy who saved Holland by putting his finger in the hole in the dike. Certainly he must have been a fat little boy with a fat finger. If his finger had been skinny, surely the raging waters would have seeped around it, broken the dam, and drowned all the Netherlands.

Mark Twain once said he had no difficulty in giving up smoking, and added: "I've done it a thousand times."

The same thing is true about dieting. Most of us find it no strain to go on a diet; staying on one is what causes the trouble.

Finding the right diet is fairly easy. There are at least 1,001 diets that "enable you to lose unwanted weight like magic." They range from a Spartan regimen of pickled eggplant, taken six times a day, to liquid mixtures of equal parts of safflower oil and bourbon drunk during rest stops on 12-mile hikes.

But there is one fault with all these diets. After you drop a few pounds, you come to something the aficionados of dieting call "a plateau."

No matter what you do — even if you give up salt and eat nothing but raw onions laced with sauerkraut and doused with vinegar — your weight sticks at that level — and sticks, and goes on sticking.

When you get right down to it, a fat man is just a blubbery yo-yo in the hand of fate — going up, going down, going up, going down.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Syphilis is still one of the most devastating diseases of mankind.

For one short span of time, it was hoped that the ravages of syphilis could be controlled with penicillin.

Unfortunately, penicillin definitely is not the answer to syphilis, which now is flourishing and expanding with forest fire intensity.

In 1963 over 100,000 cases of syphilis were diagnosed, treated and reported. Health officials can only speculate on how many thousands of cases are in existence which have been unrecognized, untreated and unreported.

Only ten years ago it was hoped that syphilis would soon be an eradicated disease. Today it is again a dreaded scourge.

The disappointment becomes even greater because of the tremendous statistical rise in cases of syphilis all over America. We are now back to one of the highest levels since the disease last reached a peak in 1947.

How does such a flare-up occur in a disease which just a few short years ago appeared to be controlled and almost extinct?

Promiscuity is probably one of the predominant causes. The high frequency of syphilis in the age group of 15 to 25 years is of deep concern to public health officials and educators.

Veneral disease among homosexuals has reached unprecedented heights.

The apathy of the general public to the devastation of syphilis is another contributing factor to the insidious spread of this disease.

Despite the most rigorous educational campaigns, syphilis still flourishes and remains one of the great threats to the health of our nation. The stigma which society still attaches to syphilis is a major obstacle to its early recognition and treatment.

Every available teaching medium must be employed to emphasize the threat of this devastating disease. Early recognition and prompt, rigorous treatment are vital factors in minimizing its severity and controlling its spread.

Education is the most powerful weapon on the battle for the eventual control and prevention of syphilis.

Are there different forms of syphilis?

There is only one form of the disease, though it may affect many different parts of the body.

Syphilis is caused by an organism called treponema pallidum, which is transmitted principally by sexual contact with a contaminated partner.

There are three stages of syphilis. Intensive treatment in the early stages offers the greatest hope for its control.

Can syphilis always be detected by a blood test?

There are many kinds of blood tests for syphilis. The original Wasserman test now has many variations.

In most instances, examinations of the blood and spinal fluid establish the diagnosis of syphilis.

Sometimes, though not often, syphilis can be present even when the blood test is negative.

Pressures for Bliss

By John Chamberlain

The coming selection of Ray Bliss of Ohio as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, which is scheduled for January 22 in Chicago will deal some of the GOP aches and pains for the moment, but it cannot hide the fact that it represents a second grade defeat for Barry Goldwater.

Whether it is a defeat for Republican conservatism, however, is still a matter for excited under-the-surface debate. The fact is that the fight over the National Committee chairmanship revealed a sharp struggle along conservatives, and many of them are by no means sorry to see Dean Burch go.

The pleasant-spoken Burch is not disliked as a personality, but to the dissident conservatives he is not so much a symbol of "Goldwaterism" as he is a symbol of that subdivision of Goldwaterism that has become known as "Arizona-ism." They would have gone along with Burch for the sake of loyalty if he had been able to drum up an impressive majority of the votes. But it would have been a matter of swallowing their true feelings about any continued ascendancy of the "Arizona Mafia."

More than a month ago members of the anti-Arizona wing of the conservative movement suggested that if Barry were willing to sacrifice Dean Burch, a good majority of the National Committee might be lined up behind the candidacy of Clifton White of New York or Peter O'Donnell of Texas. These were the established political pros who had delivered at least 400 convention votes to Goldwater at San Francisco. But Barry Goldwater's response to feelers was to write sharp letters saying, in effect, that he would consider any vote against Burch as a personal slap in the face. This, according to the conservative enemies of "an excess of Arizona-ism," left "no room for maneuver." And so things drifted for a couple of weeks as Goldwater lieutenants tried their best to drum up more than a bare majority for Dean Burch.

What happened to the Burch stalwarts was extremely disillusioning when Goldwater himself suddenly decided that he couldn't hold the line for his man. Without telling some of the stalwarts he pulled the rug out from under them by accepting Ray Bliss as the only available symbol of a "unity" agreement.

The conservative critics of "an excess of Arizona-ism" were not wholly displeased by this turn of events. But they ruefully recalled to this columnist that, if Barry had only been willing to act sooner, he might have made a much better deal for himself. He might have gotten White or O'Donnell, who had been in his corner for years, or he might have gotten a Middle-Westerner like Wayne Hood of La Crosse, Wisconsin, who had supported Barry without becoming anathema to George Romney of Michigan.

In case of a stand-off in the Chicago meeting, the plum might have fallen to Len Hall of New York, who would have been agreeable to Dick Nixon and those in the Republican Party who are to be described as "moderate conservative," rather than as "moderate liberal."

So much for the spilled milk, which only a handful of conservatives have any hopes of pouring back into the pitcher. The tendency, save for some unconstructed last ditchers from Oklahoma, Nevada and Louisiana, is to accept Ray Bliss as a genuine neutral. Bliss is being described by some who are taking him without enthusiasm as "good enough — but not too good." The foodraggers do not accept the idea that Bliss is a wizard; they point to the fact that he couldn't win in Ohio for young Bob Taft. And if they thought for a minute that Nelson Rockefeller might recapture lost Presidential momentum, they would worry over the story that George Hinman, Rockefeller's man, had been for Bliss all along.

To sum it up, Burch is even more a victim of what happened last July, when Goldwater rejected Clifton White of New York and Peter O'Donnell of Texas to favor his close Arizona friends, than he is a victim of the "moderate" blitz against conservatism. The conservatives are not interpreting the ascendancy of Bliss as a defeat for their cause. Clifton White is even now organizing a Republican Education and Action Program (REAP) to push mass education in conservative principles. Ray Bliss, the technician, will still have to deal with pressures from all sides.

NEW YORK (AP) — As popular stock price averages strive to climb to higher ground than they reached in setting records in the middle of November, particular issues again set the pace. Big advances by a few can do the trick even while the majority could be dallying, and some slipping.

And last year's star performer may not be this year's favorite, while a once drowsy issue may capture the investor's attention. This is a truism in brokers' offices that the public often ignores. The trick, even in a bull market, still is to find the favorite.

For 1964 as a whole the popular averages staged good gains. That is, the averages did. Some of their components far outshone the list as a whole. Others even declined in price.

The same is true, in percentage of change, for the performance of the averages over a 10-year period.

Take just one. The average price of the 30 stocks on the Dow-Jones industrial list rose 14.6 per cent during 1964. But one issue gained 65.5 per cent, while another lost 10.5 per cent.

Compare the same 30 stocks with their prices at the end of 1954, with adjustments for all splits and other capital changes in the 10 years. The best performing issues gained 412 per cent in market value in the decade, while a laggard dropped 3.9 per cent from its 1954 price.

Statisticians at the brokerage firm of Arthur Wiesenberger Co. put it this way: If you had $10,000 to invest at the start of 1954 and you could have used that to buy equal amounts of each of the 30 stocks, you would have ended up the year with $11,460.

If you had second sight, and had invested just in the five best performers, your holdings at the end of the year would have been $13,810. But if you were unlucky and invested only in the five worst performers your $10,000 would have ended up as just $9,350.

The top five gainers for the year were: United Aircraft, up 53.2 per cent; Chrysler, 46.5 per cent; Swift, 32.4 per cent; Sears, Roebuck, 32.1 per cent; and Du Pont, 26.3 per cent.

The unlucky five were: Alcoa, down 10.5 per cent; General Foods, up 10.3 per cent; Allied Chemical, lower by 5.7 per cent; U.S. Steel, by 4 per cent; and American Telephone — Telegraph by 2 per cent.

Sukarno's Fame

As much as any nation in the world Indonesia owes its existence to the United Nations and to the assistance of some of its individual members.

It was UN intervention that hastened the withdrawal of the Dutch from their East Indies empire and arranged plebiscites that enabled Sukarno to collect islands of diverse ethnic populations into a vast neocolonial holding. No fewer than 13 specialized agencies of the UN have helped combat disease, reduce illiteracy and improve crop production to feed the islands' needy millions.

Since 1950, the United States has contributed half a billion dollars' worth of material aid, supplied tons of surplus food, provided trained personnel to combat malaria and trained Indonesian police and military officers.

Now Sukarno has decided all of these benefactors "can go to hell." This decision cannot be explained by any possible threat Malaysia may hold for Indonesia, which dwarfs the founding federation in size and military strength. Nor can it be regarded as an impetuous act resulting from injury to Sukarno's enormous ego.

Sukarno has chosen to play Red China's game. The signs have been evident for some time. Since renouncing U. S. aid last March, Sukarno has announced his sympathy for North Viet Nam and declared himself the brother-in-arms to Mao Tze-tung.

At home he has outlawed the two political parties hostile to the Chinese-oriented communist party, Indonesia's largest with two million members. Advocates of alignment with Peking have gained ascendancy in his cabinet.

Justifiable alarm has been expressed by Malaysia. No less must be the concern of every nation which can detect in Sukarno's decision a move toward war.

Senate Referee

Parliamentary codes of procedure are intended to maintain "the gentlemanly character of politics," by seeing that public business is conducted with decorum and in fairness to all.

They don't always work that way because they can also be exploited in such petty detail as to delay legislation and otherwise serve special strategies. This, together with the complexity of the rules, calls for expert enforcement to keep business at least within the bounds of technical propriety.

Enforcement is a refereeing job, and in the U. S. Senate much of this duty has been performed in the last 41 years by a gentleman whose name seldom saw print unless there was a tough decision. He is Charles L. Watkins, whose retirement as Senate parliamentarian at the age of 85 is a new reminder of the important role played in government by unobtrusive advisers who only sit beside the thrones of power.

Fat Man Is Blubbery Yo-Yo

NEW YORK (AP) — I haven't broiled the cat yet, but I may any day.

She's looking more appetizing all the time. Every time I stare at her I no longer see a purring pet. To my famished gaze she has become a fur-covered bundle of protein.

Whenever I say "Kitty, kitty" to her, she backs away cautiously or climbs to the highest point in the room. She senses one of her nine lives may be in danger.

Of course, I actually probably wouldn't eat a cat — yet. I've only been on my diet since the first of the year.

The two greatest crimes in America today are growing old and growing fat — and I'm guilty of both. There isn't much a fellow can do about getting younger, but everybody says, "Well, at least you can take off weight — anybody can do that."

Science has found out that 50 per cent of men get heavier after 25. My own weight leaped from a nimble 165 at that age to a heavy-breathing 210 last Christmas — a gain of better than a pound a year.

The worst thing about being fat, however, isn't that it makes you feel physically uncomfortable — it's that it makes you feel unpatriotic. Everybody accuses you of letting down yourself, your country and the human race.

They point out that Britain has been saved many times by its "thin red line of heroes," never by a fat red line of heroes.

But they bend history to serve their own ends. I maintain plumpness can be patriotic.

Take for example the little boy who saved Holland by putting his finger in the hole in the dike. Certainly he must have been a fat little boy with a fat finger. If his finger had been skinny, surely the raging waters would have seeped around it, broken the dam, and drowned all the Netherlands.

Mark Twain once said he had no difficulty in giving up smoking, and added: "I've done it a thousand times."

The same thing is true about dieting. Most of us find it no strain to go on a diet; staying on one is what causes the trouble.

Finding the right diet is fairly easy. There are at least 1,001 diets that "enable you to lose unwanted weight like magic." They range from a Spartan regimen of picked eggplant, taken six times a day, to liquid mixtures of equal parts of safflower oil and bourbon drunk during rest stops on 12-mile hikes.

But there is one fault with all these diets. After you drop a few pounds, you come to something the aficionados of dieting call "a plateau."

No matter what you do — even if you give up salt and eat nothing but raw onions laced with sauerkraut and doused with vinegar — your weight sticks at that level — and sticks, and goes on sticking.

When you get right down to it, a fat man is just a blubbery yo-yo in the hand of fate — going up, going down, going up, going down.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Syphilis is still one of the most devastating diseases of mankind.

For one short span of time, it was hoped that the ravages of syphilis could be controlled with penicillin.

Unfortunately, penicillin definitely is not the answer to syphilis, which now is flourishing and expanding with forest fire intensity.

In 1963 over 100,000 cases of syphilis were diagnosed, treated and reported. Health officials can only speculate on how many more thousands of cases are in existence which have been unrecognized, untreated and unreported.

Only ten years ago it was hoped that syphilis would soon be an eradicated disease. Today it is again a dreaded scourge.

The disappointment becomes even greater because of the tremendous statistical rise in cases of syphilis all over America. We are now back to one of the highest levels since the disease last reached a peak in 1947.

How does such a flare-up occur in a disease which just a few short years ago appeared to be controlled and almost extinct?

Promiscuity is probably one of the predominant causes. The high frequency of syphilis in the age group of 15 to 25 years is of deep concern to public health officials and educators.

Veneral disease among homosexuals has reached unprecedented heights.

The apathy of the general public to the devastation of syphilis is another contributing factor to the insidious spread of this disease.

Despite the most rigorous educational campaigns, syphilis still flourishes and remains one of the great threats to the health of our nation.

The stigma which society still attaches to syphilis is a major obstacle to its early recognition and treatment.

Every available teaching medium must be employed to emphasize the threat of this devastating disease.

Early recognition and prompt, rigorous treatment are vital factors in minimizing its severity and controlling its spread.

Education is the most powerful weapon on the battle for the eventual control and prevention of syphilis.

Are there different forms of syphilis?

There is only one form of the disease, though it may affect many different parts of the body.

Syphilis is caused by an organism called treponema pallidum, which is transmitted principally by sexual contact with a contaminated partner.

There are three stages of syphilis. Intensive treatment in the early stages offers the greatest hope for its control.

Can syphilis always be detected by a blood test?

There are many kinds of blood tests for syphilis. The original Wasserman test now has many variations.

In most instances, examinations of the blood and spinal fluid establish the diagnosis of syphilis.

Sometimes, though not often, syphilis can be present even when the blood test is negative.

Pressures for Bliss

By John Chamberlain

The coming selection of Ray Bliss of Ohio as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, which is scheduled for January 22 in Chicago will deepen some of the GOP aches and pains for the moment, but it cannot hide the fact that it represents a second grade defeat for Barry Goldwater.

Whether it is a defeat for Republican conservatism, however, is still a matter for excited under-the-surface debate. The fact is that the fight over the National Committee chairmanship revealed a sharp struggle along conservatives, and many of them are by no means sorry to see Dean Burch go.

The pleasant-spoken Burch is not disliked as a personality, but to the dissident conservatives he is not so much a symbol of "Goldwaterism" as he is a symbol of that subdivision of Goldwaterism that has become known as "Arizona-ism." They would have gone along with Burch for the sake of loyalty if he had been able to drum up an impressive majority of the votes. But it would have been a matter of swallowing their true feelings about any continued ascendancy of the "Arizona Mafia."

More than a month ago members of the anti-Arizona wing of the conservative movement suggested that if Barry were willing to sacrifice Dean Burch, a good majority of the National Committee might be lined up behind the candidacy of Clifton White of New York or Peter O'Donnell of Texas. These were the established political pros who had delivered at least 400 convention votes to Goldwater at San Francisco. But Barry Goldwater's response to feelers was to write sharp letters saying, in effect, that he would consider any vote against Burch as a personal slap in the face. This, according to the conservative enemies of "an excess of Arizona-ism," left "no room for maneuver." And so things drifted for a couple of weeks as Goldwater lieutenants tried their best to drum up more than a bare majority for Dean Burch.

What happened to the Burch stalwarts was extremely disillusioning when Goldwater himself suddenly decided that he couldn't hold the line for his man. Without telling some of the stalwarts he pulled the rug out from under them by accepting Ray Bliss as the only available symbol of a "unity" agreement.

The conservative critics of "an excess of Arizona-ism" were not wholly displeased by this turn of events. But they ruefully recalled to this columnist that, if Barry had only been willing to act sooner, he might have made a much better deal for himself. He might have gotten White or O'Donnell, who had been in his corner for years, or he might have gotten a Middle-Westerner like Wayne Hood of La Crosse, Wisconsin, who had supported Barry without becoming anathema to George Romney of Michigan.

In case of a stand-off in the Chicago meeting, the plum might have fallen to Len Hall of New York, who would have been agreeable to Dick Nixon and those in the Republican Party who are to be described as "moderate conservative," rather than as "moderate liberal."

So much for the spilled milk, which only a handful of conservatives have any hopes of pouring back into the pitcher. Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Boss Gyp You? Forget It!

DEAR ABBY: I work for a fairly large company. Every year each employee is supposed to get an eight-pound ham. Last year my ham looked kind of small for eight pounds, but I didn't say anything about it. This year my ham also looked small, so I took it home and weighed it and it was only six pounds, four ounces. I took it back to the department head and told him if the company bragged that they gave their employees eight-pound hams, the hams should weigh eight pounds. He became very angry with me and told me I ought to be ashamed of myself, and I should have taken the ham and kept quiet. Do you think I did the wrong thing? Or was the department head in the wrong? What do I do now?

DEAR GYP: If the ham had been labeled "EIGHT POUNDS" by the supplier, then the company was gyped and the department head should have used his and thanked you for revealing it. But if the company "bragged" that they gave eight pound hams, and didn't, then the deal was something less than kosher. If I were you, I'd forget it.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a man who has a fantastic imagination? We are in our seventies and have known him all our lives. He will sit and tell folks all about his "experiences" in the war, and he has never been in the service. He also tells people that he helped bring elk to our state, and the elk were here before us.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: If he is only imagining these things, pity him. It is a sickness of the mind. If he is lying, pity him. That is a sickness of the soul.

DEAR ABBY: Re the letter signed "TROUBLE AT HOME" from the 19-year-old girl who was dating a 27-year-old man who said he was separated from his wife. That letter really hit home here. When I was 19 I met a man of 25. We dated a year before I found out he was married and had two children. He said he was trying to get a

OES Chapter Observes 67th Birthday

Betty Liston, worthy matron, was in charge of the meeting when members of Circleville Chapter No. 90, OES, met and observed the chapter's 67th birthday. She welcomed everyone by reading a poem, "The Whole New Year."

Three new petitions were read and committees appointed. Thank you notes were read from the family of Lura E. Sewell, Mary Lou Partee, Lula B. Marion, Mary E. Frazier, Joe Brink and Harry Betz. Invitations were received to attend the School of Instruction January 23 at New Vienna and School of Instruction for District 23 to be held Feb. 2 at the Eastern Star Temple, in Chillicothe. Reservations for the luncheon are necessary by Jan. 30 with Mrs. Perry Wallingford, 21 Dun Road, Chillicothe.

Communications from the worthy grand matron and patron Jessie Negus and Alden Lash were read concerning the activities of the new year and irregularities of the old year. The charter donated $25 to the OES Hospital Circle. Another member, Roy Gosnell was appointed to the Rainbow Board. The charter was draped for Laura Sewell, a deceased member.

The worthy matron read a history of the Chapter which was instituted Jan. 11, 1898, and was granted a Charter Oct. 14, 1898, with 42 Charter members. Reminiscing was enjoyed by the group and the following past matrons participated: Irma Stevenson, Muriel Reichelderfer, Mary Johnson and Garret Reichelderfer. Members were invited to the installation of the Marie L. Hamilton Assembly No. 170.

Refreshments were served by Mary Owens and her committee.

SHATTERED DREAMS

DEAR ABBY: Tell "HATES BASEMENTS" that I, for one, prefer to entertain my guests in my "basement" (we call it our "rec" room) because I am tired of having guests who, after a couple of drinks, will thoughtlessly set a highball glass down on my baby grand piano. Or place a lighted cigarette on the edge of a table (or ashtray) and go off and forget about it while the cigarette rolls off onto the rug (or table) leaving a nice rectangular burn mark. At every party I have ever had, at least one drink was either spilled or accidentally kicked over. And if it happens in the rec room, it's easier on my nerves.

Men Become Best Cooks, Foods Teacher Believes

CINCINNATI (AP)—Men become the best cooks because "they have more of an inner potential for good cooking than women," says Walter R. Wasson, commercial foods teacher at a Cincinnati high school.

Wasson has been teaching boys and girls at Central High School how to become professional cooks for many years. He said, "Youngsters who leave here will make sure that the brown gravy you get in a hotel in San Francisco will taste the same as it does in New York," he said.

Wasson very quickly points out that "one of my former students is a $175-a-week chef in Detroit."

Wasson's classes cover American, French, German and Italian cooking over a four-year period. He got his own start as a butcher's helper at the famous Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, Colo.

He says girls are some of his best students because "they are easier to teach and work more steadily." But he adds in the same breath that "boys usually make the best cooks after they leave here."

"Men are more precise, more efficient and take more pains," he added.

Wasson teaches everything from sauerbraten to spaghetti to roast beef, and he doesn't have such a thing as recipes. "What most people call recipes, we call procedure sheets," he said.

Annually the Cincinnati Restaurant Association gives a $25 award to his best student.

Sukarno's Fame

As much as any nation in the world Indonesia owes its existence to the United Nations and to the assistance of some of its individual members.

It was UN intervention that hastened the withdrawal of the Dutch from their East Indies empire and arranged plebiscites that enabled Sukarno to collect islands of diverse ethnic populations into a vast neocolonial holding. No fewer than 13 specialized agencies of the UN have helped combat disease, reduce illiteracy and improve crop production to feed the islands' needy millions.

Since 1950, the United States has contributed half a billion dollars' worth of material aid, supplied tons of surplus food, provided trained personnel to combat malaria and trained Indonesian police and military officers.

Now Sukarno has decided all of these benefactors "can go to hell." This decision cannot be explained by any possible threat Malaysia may hold for Indonesia, which dwarfs the founding federation in size and military strength. Nor can it be regarded as an impetuous act resulting from injury to Sukarno's enormous ego.

Sukarno has chosen to play Red China's game. The signs have been evident for some time. Since renouncing U. S. aid last March, Sukarno has announced his sympathy for North Viet Nam and declared himself the brother-in-arms to Mao Tze-tung.

At home he has outlawed the two political parties hostile to the Chinese-orientated communist party, Indonesia's largest with two million members. Advocates of alignment with Peking have gained ascendancy in his cabinet.

Justifiable alarm has been expressed by Malaysia. No less must be the concern of every nation which can detect in Sukarno's decision a move toward war.

Senate Referee

Parliamentary codes of procedure are intended to maintain "the gentlemanly character of politics," by seeing that public business is conducted with decorum and in fairness to all.

They don't always work that way because they can also be exploited in such petty detail as to delay legislation and otherwise serve special strategies. This, together with the complexity of the rules, calls for expert enforcement to keep business at least within the bounds of technical propriety.

Enforcement is a refereeing job, and in the U. S. Senate much of this duty has been performed in the last 41 years by a gentleman whose name seldom saw print unless there was a tough decision. He is Charles L. Watkins, whose retirement as Senate parliamentarian at the age of 85 is a new reminder of the important role played in government by unobtrusive advisers who only sit beside the thrones of power.

Fat Man Is Blubbery Yo-Yo

NEW YORK (AP) — I haven't broiled the cat yet, but I may any day.

She's looking more appetizing all the time. Every time I stare at her I no longer see a purring pet. To my famished gaze she has become a fur-covered bundle of protein.

Whenever I say "Kitty, kitty" to her, she backs away cautiously or climbs to the highest point in the room. She senses one of her nine lives may be in danger.

Of course, I actually probably wouldn't eat a cat — yet. I've only been on my diet since the first of the year.

The two greatest crimes in America today are growing old and growing fat — and I'm guilty of both. There isn't much a fellow can do about getting younger, but everybody says, "Well, at least you can take off weight — anybody can do that."

Science has found out that 50 per cent of men get heavier after 25. My own weight leaped from a nimble 165 at that age to a heavy-breathing 210 last Christmas — a gain of better than a pound a year.

The worst thing about being fat, however, isn't that it makes you feel physically uncomfortable — it's that it makes you feel unattractive. Everybody accuses you of letting down yourself, your country and the human race.

They point out that Britain has been saved many times by its "thin red line of heroes," never by a fat red line of heroes.

But they bend history to serve their own ends. I maintain plumpness can be patriotic.

Take for example the little boy who saved Holland by putting his finger in the hole in the dike. Certainly he must have been a fat little boy with a fat finger. If his finger had been skinny, surely the raging waters would have seeped around it, broken the dam, and drowned all the Netherlands.

Mark Twain once said he had no difficulty in giving up smoking, and added: "I've done it a thousand times."

The same thing is true about dieting. Most of us find it no strain to go on a diet; staying on one is what causes the trouble.

Finding the right diet is fairly easy. There are at least 1,001 diets that "enable you to lose unwanted weight like magic." They range from a Spartan regimen of pickled eggplant, taken six times a day, to liquid mixtures of equal parts of safflower oil and bourbon drunk during rest stops on 12-mile hikes.

But there is one fault with all

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Syphilis is still one of the most devastating diseases of mankind.

For one short span of time, it was hoped that the ravages of syphilis could be controlled with penicillin.

Unfortunately, penicillin definitely is not the answer to syphilis, which now is flourishing and expanding with forest fire intensity.

In 1963 over 100,000 cases of syphilis were diagnosed, treated and reported. Health officials can only speculate on how many more thousands of cases are in existence which have been unrecognized, untreated and unreported.

Only ten years ago it was hoped that syphilis would soon be an eradicated disease. Today it is again a dreaded scourge.

The disappointment becomes even greater because of the tremendous statistical rise in cases of syphilis all over America. We are now back to one of the highest levels since the disease last reached a peak in 1947.

How does such a flare-up occur in a disease which just a few short years ago appeared to be controlled and almost extinct?

Promiscuity is probably one of the predominant causes. The high frequency of syphilis in the age group of 15 to 25 years is of deep concern to public health officials and educators.

Veneral disease among homosexuals has reached unprecedented heights.

The apathy of the general public to the devastation of syphilis is another contributing factor to the insidious spread of this disease.

Despite the most rigorous educational campaigns, syphilis still flourishes and remains one of the great threats to the health of our nation.

The stigma which society still attaches to syphilis is a major obstacle to its early recognition and treatment.

Every available teaching medium must be employed to emphasize the threat of this devastating disease.

Early recognition and prompt, rigorous treatment are vital factors in minimizing its severity and controlling its spread.

Education is the most powerful weapon on the battle for the eventual control and prevention of syphilis.

Are there different forms of syphilis?

There is only one form of the disease, though it may affect many different parts of the body.

Syphilis is caused by an organism called treponema pallidum, which is transmitted principally by sexual contact with a contaminated partner.

There are three stages of syphilis. Intensive treatment in the early stages offers the greatest hope for its control.

Can syphilis always be detected by a blood test?

There are many kinds of blood tests for syphilis. The original Wasserman test now has many variations.

In most instances, examination of the blood and spinal fluid establish the diagnosis of syphilis.

Sometimes, though not often, syphilis can be present even when the blood test is negative.

Pressures for Bliss

By John Chamberlain

The coming selection of Ray Bliss of Ohio as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, which is scheduled for January 22 in Chicago will deal some of the GOP aches and pains for the moment, but it cannot hide the fact that it represents a second grade defeat for Barry Goldwater.

Whether it is a defeat for Republican conservatism, however, is still a matter for excited under-the-surface debate. The fact is that the fight over the National Committee chairmanship revealed a sharp struggle along conservatives, and many of them are by no means sorry to see Dean Burch go. The pleasant-spoken Burch is not disliked as a personality, but to the dissident conservatives he is not so much a symbol of "Goldwaterism" as he is a symbol of that subdivision of Goldwaterism that has become known as "Arizonaism." They would have gone along with Burch for the sake of loyalty if he had been able to drum up an impressive majority of the votes. But it would have been a matter of swallowing their true feelings about any continued ascendancy of the "Arizona Mafia."

More than a month ago members of the anti-Arizona wing of the conservative movement suggested that if Barry were willing to sacrifice Dean Burch, a good majority of the National Committee might be lined up behind the candidacy of Clifton White of New York or Peter O'Donnell of Texas. These were the established political pros who had delivered at least 400 convention votes to Goldwater at San Francisco. But Barry Goldwater's response to feelers was to write sharp letters saying, in effect, that he would consider any vote against Burch as a personal slap in the face. This, according to the conservative enemies of "an excess of Arizonaism," left "no room for maneuver." And so things drifted for a couple of weeks as Goldwater lieutenants tried their best to drum up more than a bare majority for Dean Burch.

What happened to the Burch stalwarts was extremely disillusioning when Goldwater himself suddenly decided that he couldn't hold the line for his man. Without telling some of the stalwarts he pulled the rug out from under them by accepting Ray Bliss as the "unity" agreement.

The conservative critics of "an excess of Arizonaism" were not wholly displeased by this turn of events. But they ruefully recalled to this columnist that if Barry had only been willing to act sooner, he might have made a much better deal for himself. He might have

NEW YORK (AP) — As popular stock price averages strive to climb to higher ground than they reached in setting records in the middle of November, particular issues again set the pace. Big advances by a few can do the trick even while the majority could be dallying, and some slipping.

And last year's star performer may not be this year's favorite, while a once drowsy issue may capture the investor's attention. This is a truism in brokers' offices that the public often ignores. The trick, even in a bull market, still is to find the favorite.

For 1964 as a whole the popular averages staged good gains. That is, the averages did. Some of their components far outshone the list as a whole. Others even declined in price.

The same is true, in percentage of change, for the performance of the averages over a 10-year period.

Take just one. The average price of the 30 stocks on the Dow-Jones industrial list rose 14.6 per cent during 1964. But one issue gained 65.5 per cent, while another lost 10.5 per cent.

Compare the same 30 stocks with their prices at the end of 1954, with adjustments for all splits and other capital changes in the 10 years. The best performing issues gained 412 per cent in market value in the decade, while a laggard dropped 3.9 per cent from its 1954 price.

Statisticians at the brokerage

To sum it up, Burch is even more a victim of what happened last July, when Goldwater rejected Clifton White of New York and Peter O'Donnell of Texas to favor his close Arizona friends, than he is a victim of the "moderate" blitz against conservatism. The conservatives are not interpreting the ascendancy of Bliss as a defeat for their cause. Clifton White is even now organizing a Republican Education and Action Program (REAP) to push mass education in conservative principles. Ray Bliss, the technician, will still have to deal with pressures from all sides.

No matter what you do — even if you give up salt and eat nothing but raw onions laced with sauerkraut and doused with vinegar — your weight sticks at that level — and sticks, and goes on sticking.

When you get right down to it, a fat man is just a blubbery yo-yo in the hand of fate — going up, going down, going up, going down.

Without telling some of the stalwarts he pulled the rug out from under them by accepting Ray Bliss as the only available symbol of a "unity" agreement.

The conservative critics of "an excess of Arizona-ism" were not wholly displeased by this turn of events. But they ruefully recalled to this columnist that, if Barry had only been willing to act sooner, he might have made a much better deal for himself. He might have gotten White or O'Donnell, who had been in his corner for years, or he might have gotten a Middle-Westerner like Wayne Hood of La Crosse, Wisconsin, who had supported Barry without becoming anathema to George Romney of Michigan.

In case of a stand-off in the Chicago meeting, the plum might have fallen to Len Hall of New York, who would have been agreeable to Dick Nixon and those in the Republican Party who are to be described as "moderate conservative," rather than as "moderate liberal."

So much for the spilled milk, which only a handful of conservatives have any hopes of pouring back into the pitcher. The tendency, save for some unconstructed last ditchers from Oklahoma, Nevada and Louisiana, is to accept Ray Bliss as a genuine neutral. Bliss is being described by some who are taking him without enthusiasm as "good enough — but not too good." The foodraggers do not accept the idea that Bliss is a wizard; they point to the fact that he couldn't win in Ohio for young Bob Taft. And if they thought for a minute that Nelson Rockefeller might recapture lost Presidential momentum, they would worry over the story that George Hinman, Rockefeller's man, had been for Bliss all along.

To sum it up, Burch is even more a victim of what happened last July, when Goldwater rejected Clifton White of New York and Peter O'Donnell of Texas to favor his close Arizona friends, than he is a victim of the "moderate" blitz against conservatism. The conservatives are not interpreting the ascendancy of Bliss as a defeat for their cause. Clifton White is even now organizing a Republican Education and Action Program (REAP) to push mass education in conservative principles. Ray Bliss, the technician, will still have to deal with pressures from all sides.

And last year's star performer may not be this year's favorite, while a once drowsy issue may capture the investor's attention. This is a truism in brokers' offices that the public often ignores. The trick, even in a bull market, still is to find the favorite.

For 1964 as a whole the popular averages staged good gains. That is, the averages did. Some of their components far outshone the list as a whole. Others even declined in price.

The same is true, in percentage of change, for the performance of the averages over a 10-year period.

Take just one. The average price of the 30 stocks on the Dow-Jones industrial list rose 14.6 per cent during 1964. But one issue gained 65.5 per cent, while another lost 10.5 per cent.

Compare the same 30 stocks with their prices at the end of 1954, with adjustments for all splits and other capital changes in the 10 years. The best performing issues gained 412 per cent in market value in the decade, while a laggard dropped 3.9 per cent from its 1954 price.

Statisticians at the brokerage firm of Arthur Wiesenberger Co. put it this way: If you had $10,000 to invest at the start of 1964 and you could have used that to buy equal amounts of each of the 30 stocks, you would have ended up the year with stocks valued on the market at $11,460.

If you had second sight, and had invested just in the five best performers, your holdings at the end of the year would have been $13,810. But if you were unlucky and invested only in the five worst performers your $10,000 would have ended up as just $9,350.

The top five gainers for the year were: United Aircraft, up 53.2 per cent; Chrysler, 46.5 per cent; Swift, 32.4 per cent; Sears, Roebuck, 32.1 per cent; and Du Pont, 26.3 per cent.

The unlucky five were: Alcoa, down 10.5 per cent; General Foods, off 10.3 per cent; Allied Chemical, lower by 5.7 per cent; U.S. Steel, by 4 per cent; and American Telephone — Telegraph by 2 per cent.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Boss Gyp You? Forget It!

DEAR ABBY: I work for a fairly large company. Every year each employee is supposed to get an eight-pound ham. Last year my ham looked kind of small for eight pounds, but I didn't say anything about it. This year my ham also looked small, so I took it home and weighed it and it was only six pounds, four ounces. I took it back to the department head and told him if the company bragged that they gave their employees eight-pound hams, the hams should weigh eight pounds. He became very angry with me and told me I ought to be ashamed of myself, and I should have taken the ham and kept quiet. Do you think I did the wrong thing? Or was the department head in the wrong? What do I do now?

DEAR GYPPE: If the ham had been labeled "EIGHT pounds" by the supplier, then the company was gyped and the department head should have used his and thanked you for revealing it. But if the company "bragged" that they gave eight pound hams, and didn't, then the deal was something less than kosher. If I were you, I'd forget it.

DEAR ABBY: What can be done about a man who has a fantastic imagination? We are in our seventies and have known him all our lives. He will sit and tell folks all about his "experiences" in the war, and he has never been in the service. He also tells people that he helped bring elk to our state, and the elk were here before us.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: If he is only imagining these things, pity him. It is a sickness of the mind. If he is lying, pity him. That is a sickness of the soul.

DEAR ABBY: Re the letter signed "TROUBLE AT HOME" from the 19-year-old girl who was dating a 27-year-old man who said he was separated from his wife. That letter really hit home here. When I was 19 I met a man of 25. We dated a year before I found out he was married and had two children. He said he was trying to get a

Betty Liston, worthy matron, was in charge of the meeting when members of Circleville Chapter No. 90, OES, met and observed the chapter's 67th birthday. She welcomed everyone by reading a poem, "The Whole New Year."

Three new petitions were read and committees appointed. Thank you notes were read from the family of Lura E. Sewell, Mary Lou Partee, Lula B. Marion, Mary E. Frazier, Joe Brink and Harry Betz. Invitations were received to attend the School of Instruction January 23 at New Vienna and School of Instruction for District 23 to be held Feb. 2 at the Eastern Star Temple, in Chillicothe. Reservations for the luncheon are necessary by Jan. 30 with Mrs. Perry Wallingford, 21 Dun Road, Chillicothe.

Communications from the worthy grand matron and patron Jessie Negus and Alden Lash were read concerning the activities of the new year and irregularities of the old year. The charter donated $25 to the OES Hospital Circle. Another member, Roy Gosnell was appointed to the Rainbow Board. The charter was draped for Laura Sewell, a deceased member.

The worthy matron read a history of the Chapter which was instituted Jan. 11, 1898, and was granted a Charter Oct. 14, 1898, with 42 Charter members. Reminiscing was enjoyed by the group and the following past matrons participated: Irma Stevenson, Muriel Reichelderfer, Mary Johnson and Garnet Reichelderfer. Members were invited to the installation of the Marie L. Hamilton Assembly No. 170.

Refreshments were served by Mary Owens and her committee.

SHATTERED DREAMS

DEAR ABBY: Tell "HATES BASEMENTS" that I, for one, prefer to entertain my guests in my "basement" (we call it our "rec" room) because I am tired of having guests who, after a couple of drinks, will thoughtlessly set a highball glass down on my baby grand piano. Or place a lighted cigarette on the edge of a table (or ashtray) and go off and forget about it while the cigarette rolls off onto the rug (or table) leaving a nice rectangular burn mark. At every party I have ever had, at least one drink was either spilled or accidentally kicked over. And if it happens in the rec room, it's easier on my nerves.

Ever add grated cheese — Cheddar or Parmesan — to egg salad sandwiches? Nice for a change!

Church Women Meet, Various Plans Outlined

The Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren met Thursday evening in the church basement. There were 12 members present.

Miss Phyllis Cupp, president, conducted the meeting. The group plans to donate two blankets and a comfort for relief aid in California and to give an offering to Mrs. Kay Bolttenhouse to visit her mother.

Plans were made to buy a sewing box and each member was asked to give a donation. A miscellaneous shower will be given in the church basement 7:30 p. m. Jan. 29 for Mary Ann Starkey. Get well cards were sent to Max Dean, Miss Margaret Hartinger, Mrs. Ruth Rhymer, Mrs. Frank Woodward, Mrs. Hallie Reiser and Mrs. Gertrude Cupp.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Harold A. Dowden. Poems were read by Mrs. Joan Boyer and Mrs. Adrian Merriman. Scripture from Matthew 9:36-38 was read by Mrs. Emma Essick followed with The Lord's Prayer.

A choral reading was given and all joined hands in a Circle prayer. A covered dish supper was served. Each woman was dressed to represent different countries and the food served was representative of the countries.

The next meeting will be Feb. 11. Each member is requested to bring a poem. The project will be working on a comfort and members are to bring needles and scissors.

16 Attend Emmett Chapel WSCS Meet

Mrs. Janet Wilson and Mrs. Frank Graves were in charge of the program when the Emmett Chapel WSCS met in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Shepler. There were 16 members present.

Mrs. Donald Myers, vice president, opened the meeting with devotions followed with prayer. Mrs. Shepler gave a report on the candy sales and the treasurer's report.

The ways and means committee reported on the stock sale dinner to be held Jan. 27 at the Bowling stock yards.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Cora Hood and Miss Alda Bartley.

Men Become Best Cooks, Foods Teacher Believes

CINCINNATI (AP)—Men become the best cooks because "they have more of an inner potential for good cooking than women," says Walter R. Wasson, commercial foods teacher at a Cincinnati high school.

Wasson has been teaching boys and girls at Central High School how to become professional cooks for many years.

de "Youngsters who leave here will make sure that the brown gravy you get in a hotel in San Francisco will taste the same as it does in New York," he said.

Wasson very quickly points out that "one of my former students is a $175-a-week chef in Detroit."

"A woman would make a poor chef," Wasson said. "Imagine a woman trying to cook for 2,500 people. It's hard work. A woman would get to a certain point and just start crying and run away, probably. That's why you don't see women chefs."

Wasson's classes cover American, French, German and Italian cooking over a four-year period. He got his own start as a butcher's helper at the famous Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, Colo.

He says girls are some of his best students because "they are easier to teach and work more steadily." But he adds in the same breath that "boys usually make the best cooks after they leave here."

"Men are more precise, more efficient and take more pains," he added.

Wasson teaches everything from sauerbraten to spaghetti to roast beef, and he doesn't have such a thing as recipes. "What most people call recipes, we call procedure sheets," he said.

Annually the Cincinnati Restaurant Association gives a $25 award to his best student.

usually a senior, and the Statler Foundation kicks in with $1,000 graduate scholarships for Wasson's best prospects.

What can Wasson's students look forward to? "Many chefs make $20,000 to $25,000 a year," he said. "An ordinary cook can make $150 a week or more."

Dissolve ordinary fabric dyes in a small amount of water and use to stain unfinished furniture.

Ever add slivers of preserved ginger — the kind that comes piced in syrup — to a yam casserole? Delicious with ham or chicken.

Ever add grated cheese — Cheddar or Parmesan — to egg salad sandwiches? Nice for a change!

Church Women Meet, Various Plans Outlined

The Women's Fellowship of the Church of the Brethren met Thursday evening in the church basement. There were 12 members present.

Miss Phyllis Cupp, president, conducted the meeting. The group plans to donate two blankets and a comfort for relief aid in California and to give an offering to Mrs. Kay Boltenhouse to visit her mother.

Plans were made to buy a sewing box and each member was asked to give a donation. A miscellaneous shower will be given in the church basement 7:30 p. m. Jan. 29 for Mary Ann Starkey. Get well cards were sent to Max Dean, Miss Margaret Hartinger, Mrs. Ruth Rhymer, Mrs. Frank Woodward, Mrs. Hallie Reeser and Mrs. Gertrude Cupp.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Harold A. Dowden. Poems were read by Mrs. Joan Boyer and Mrs. Adrian Merriman. Scripture from Matthew 9:36-38 was read by Mrs. Emma Essick followed with The Lord's Prayer.

A choral reading was given and all joined hands in a Circle prayer. A covered dish supper was served. Each woman was dressed to represent different countries and the food served was representative of the countries.

The next meeting will be Feb. 11. Each member is requested to bring a poem. The project will be working on a comfort and members are to bring needles and scissors.

16 Attend Emmett Chapel WSCS Meet

Mrs. Janet Wilson and Mrs. Frank Graves were in charge of the program when the Emmett Chapel WSCS met in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Shepler. There were 16 members present.

Mrs. Donald Myers, vice president, opened the meeting with devotions followed with prayer. Mrs. Shepler gave a report on the candy sales and the treasurer's report.

The ways and means committee reported on the stock sale dinner to be held Jan. 27 at the Bowling stock yards.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Cora Hood and Miss Alda Bartley.

Guild 31 To Meet

Friday Meet Slated

Berger Hospital Guild No. 45 will meet 8 p. m. Friday in the hom of Mrs. Weldon Owens, 225 Edwards Road.

Men Become Best Cooks, Foods Teacher Believes

CINCINNATI (AP)—Men become the best cooks because "they have more of an inner potential for good cooking than women," says Walter R. Wasson, commercial foods teacher at a Cincinnati high school.

Wasson has been teaching boys and girls at Central High School how to become professional cooks for many years.

"Youngsters who leave here will make sure that the brown gravy you get in a hotel in San Francisco will taste the same as it does in New York," he said.

Wasson very quickly points out that "one of my former students is a $175-a-week chef in Detroit."

"A woman would make a poor chef," Wasson said. "Imagine a woman trying to cook for 2,500 people. It's hard work. A woman would get to a certain point and just start crying and run away, probably. That's why you don't see women chefs." Wasson's classes cover American, French, German and Italian cooking over a four-year period. He got his own start as a butcher's helper at the famous Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, Colo.

He says girls are some of his best students because "they are easier to teach and work more steadily." But he adds in the same breath that "boys usually make the best cooks after they leave here."

"Men are more precise, more efficient and take more pains," he added.

Wasson teaches everything from sauerbraten to spaghetti to roast beef, and he doesn't have such a thing as recipes.

"What most people call recipes, we call procedure sheets," he said.

Annually the Cincinnati Restaurant Association gives a $25 award to his best student —

Iowa Visits Indiana, Chalks 74-68 Upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It didn't take Iowa long to catch up with Indiana's hurrying Hoosiers. Now the Hawkeyes are looking forward to a Bear hunt.

Iowa, beaten on its home court a week ago by the fifth-ranked Hoosiers, tracked them back to Bloomington, Ind., Monday night, scored a 74-68 upset and climbed into second place in the Big Ten Conference basketball race.

The surprising Hawks, ninth in last season's Big Ten windup, are right behind Michigan today with a 4-1 league mark. They visit Ann Arbor Feb. 8. Immediately ahead, however, is a Jan. 29 date in Chicago with UCLA's No. 1-ranked Bruins.

Indiana may make a pitch for a six-day week. The Hoosiers have been beaten only twice in 14 season starts—each time on a Monday night. The loss to Iowa dropped them into fourth place in the conference with a 3-2 record.

Gary Olson and Chris Purvall divided 40 points for Iowa, which blazed to a 34-20 halftime margin on .536 shooting and was never headed. Steve Redenbaugh and Dick Van Arsdale paced the Hoosiers with 18 points apiece. Indiana starter Jon McGlocklin sat out the game with a knee injury.

The evening wasn't a complete washout for the Hoosier state. Ron Iwema poured in 26 points, leading Butler to an 80-74 ambush of Bradley at Indianapolis.

Only a handful of major games were played as the annual semester break cut into the schedule. Kentucky and Tennessee won key Southeastern Conference tests and Nebraska whipped Iowa State in a battle of Big Eight tallenders.

Kentucky handed Auburn its first SEC loss 73-67 at Lexington, Ky., leaving idle Vanderbilt atop the league with a 4-0 mark. Sophomore Louie Dampier and veteran Terry Mobley sparked the Wildcats with 22 and 18 points, respectively.

Tennessee, which beat Kentucky last Saturday night, moved into contention by flattening Georgia 76-57. The Vols are 4-1, Auburn 5-1, in league play.

Nebraska's full-court press and a couple of clutch baskets by Grant Simmons held off Iowa State 88-77 at Lincoln, Neb. Simmons, who scored 29 points, twice headed off Cyclone rallies in the second half. The Cornhuskers' first triumph in four Big Eight starts left Iowa State, 1-4, in the league cellar.

OSU Star Drops Out, Signs with Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — James Dugan, dropped from Ohio State after scholastic difficulties has been signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates to a contract with their Batavia, N. Y., farm club. The 18-year-old Dugan of Flagstaff, Ariz., an outfielder and

Otto Graham Voted Niche In Football Hall of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Four post-war stars and three from the National League's infant years moved into professional football's Hall of Fame today.

They were unanimous choices of the selection committee to join 24 illustrious pigskin figures named previously to the hall of heroes. All new members will be inducted during "football's greatest weekend" here Aug. 7, just prior to the Detroit-Washington Hall of Fame exhibition contest.

Newcomers to the grid shrine here in professional football's birthplace are:

Otto Graham of Northwestern, sensational quarterback of the Cleveland Browns from 1946 through 1955.

Guy Chamberlin of Nebraska, player-coach from 1919 through 1928 with the Canton Bulldogs, Cleveland, Frankford Yellowjackets, Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals.

Paddy Driscoll of Northwestern, player-coach 1919-1931 and 1941-1964 with the Chicago Cardinals and Chicago Bears.

Dr. Daniel F. Fortmann, of Colgate, 1936-46 guard with the Chicago Bears.

Ed Luckman of Columbia, 1939-1950 Chicago Bears quarter back.

Steve Van Buren of Louisiana State, 1944-1951 halfback with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Bob Waterfield of UCLA, 1945-1952 quarterback with the Cleveland and Los Angeles Rams.

Most of the new hall of famers are still active in some phase of the game.

Graham is the U.S. Coast Guard Academy head coach, and bosses the collegiate all-stars in the annual Chicago Tribune all-star game. He's 43, and the all-star contest is scheduled the day before he is inducted into the million dollar shrine.

Van Buren is head coach of the Newark Bears in the Atlantic Coast League; Driscoll and Luckman are members of the Chicago Bears coaching staff, and Dr. Fortmann, a Los Angeles surgeon, is team physician for the Rams.

Only Waterfield, who resigned two years ago as head coach of the Rams, and Chamberlin —

Xavier's Cagers Blame Refs Little

CINCINNATI (AP) — Don't blame the refs if your team loses a basketball game.

That's the advice from the Musketeers of Xavier University who say they believe that officiating is the least of any factors that can influence the outcome of a game. The 11 Musketeers were asked to rank in order 13 factors which may or may not have an influence on games and ranked officiating lowest. U.S. Olympic Squad Named Team of Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"This is the greatest swimming and diving team ever assembled for any Olympics. It may be years, if ever, before we see another like it."

So said Dr. Harold Henning, manager of the U.S. Olympic swimming team after his teenage stars had completed a series of unprecedented triumphs at Tokyo last October.

"We left swimmers at home who could win medals in these games," he added.

An Associated Press panel of sports writers and broadcasters confirmed that judgment today by naming the Olympic Swimming squad as the outstanding team on the year in The AP year-end poll.

It was a natural choice, since the same voters previously had picked Don Schollander, winner of four Olympic gold medals in swimming, as the Male Athlete of the Year and had picked two Olympic swimmers among the first five in the voting for the Female Athlete of the Year.

The U.S. Olympic swimmers and divers took 16 gold medals, 10 second-place silvers and five third-place bronze medals in the Tokyo Games, an unmatched harvest. They broke world records or approached them in nearly every event.

No Surgery Is Seen Needed by Browns QB

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Browns quarterback Frank Ryan probably will not need surgery on a bone separation in his shoulder, team physician Dr. Vic Ippolito said Monday.

Dr. Ippolito examined Ryan, injured in the National Football League Pro-Bowl game Jan. 10 in Los Angeles, at the Shaker Heights Medical Center Hospital. Ryan must wear a plaster cast for six weeks.

Bremen '5' Wins Again

Connor Sports of Bremen gained its ninth win in as many games in the Teays Valley Independent Basketball League Sunday.

The unbeaten quintet downed Ashville IGA 80-39. In other games South Bloomfield was topped, 74-56, by the VFW, Barrs' defeated Circleville Metal, 70-54, and Circleville Merchants edged Grove City, 67-61.

Sunday's game marked only the second time the Bremen quintet has been held to less than 100 points in the TV league. Larry Young scored 20 points for the winners. High man for the IGA unit was Dick Hoover with 11 markers.

The Vets led by a 20-11 score at the end of the first period and coasted to a win over the Bloomfield five. Paul Large paced the balanced scoring attack which saw five players hit the double figure column for the winners. For the losers, Hollenback tallied 20 markers.

SELLS and Hoover were the leading scorers for the losers with 22 and 20 markers respectively for Barrs'. Burger had 15 points for Circleville Metal in a losing effort.

The best scoring effort of the day was turned in by Dick Tucker for the Circleville Merchants. He notched 32 points for the winning roundtown quintet, while Jake Bailey turned in a 20 point performance.

Al Baush and Charlie Brown had 12 points each for the Grove City team.

Sunday VFW plays Connor's Sports, Circleville Metal tangles with Circleville Merchants, Grove City meets South Bloomfield and Barrs' goes against Ashville IGA.

Circleville Frosh Defeat Logan Elm

The Circleville freshman basketball team defeated Logan Elm, 41-28, last night behind a 16 point scoring effort by Rick Congrove.

Congrove hit seven field goals in the game and canned a pair of charity tosses to pick up his total. Jeff Steel added 11 markers to the little Tigers' scoring effort.

High man for the losing Logan Elm quintet was Moss with ten points.

The CHS frosh have an overall record of five wins and three losses.

Tonight they travel to Lancaster Ewing for a game.

Iowa Visits Indiana, Chalks 74-68 Upset

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It didn't take Iowa long to catch up with Indiana's hurrying Hoosiers. Now the Hawkeyes are looking forward to a Bear hunt.

Iowa, beaten on its home court a week ago by the fifth-ranked Hoosiers, tracked them back to Bloomington, Ind., Monday night, scored a 74-68 upset and climbed into second place in the Big Ten Conference basketball race.

The surprising Hawks, ninth in last season's Big Ten windup, are right behind Michigan today with a 4-1 league mark. They visit Ann Arbor Feb. 8. Immediately ahead, however, is a Jan. 29 date in Chicago with UCLA's No. 1-ranked Bruins.

Indiana may make a pitch for a six-day week. The Hoosiers have been beaten only twice in 14 season starts—each time on a Monday night. The loss to Iowa dropped them into fourth place in the conference with a 3-2 record.

Gary Olson and Chris Purvall divided 40 points for Iowa, which blazed to a 34-20 halftime margin on .536 shooting and was never headed. Steve Redenbaugh and Dick Van Arsdale paced the Hoosiers with 18 points apiece. Indiana starter Jon McGlocklin sat out the game with a knee injury.

The evening wasn't a complete washout for the Hoosier state. Ron Ivema poured in 26 points, leading Butler to an 80-74 ambush of Bradley at Indianapolis.

Only a handful of major games were played as the annual semester break cut into the schedule. Kentucky and Tennessee won key Southeastern Conference tests and Nebraska whipped Iowa State in a battle of Big Eight tailenders.

Kentucky handed Auburn its first SEC loss 73-67 at Lexington, Ky., leaving idle Vanderbilt atop the league with a 4-0 mark. Sophomore Louie Dampier and veteran Terry Mobley sparked the Wildcats with 22 and 18 points, respectively.

Tennessee, which beat Kentucky last Saturday night, moved into contention by flattening Georgia 76-57. The Vols are 4-1, Auburn 5-1, in league play.

Nebraska's full-court press and a couple of clutch baskets by Grant Simmons held off Iowa State 88-77 at Lincoln, Neb. Simmons, who scored 29 points, twice headed off Cyclone rallies in the second half. The Cornhuskers' first triumph in four Big Eight starts left Iowa State, 1-4, in the league cellar.

Otto Graham Voted Niche In Football Hall of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Four post-war stars and three from the National League's infant years moved into professional football's Hall of Fame today.

They were unanimous choices of the selection committee to join 24 illustrious pigskin figures named previously to the hall of heroes. All new members will be inducted during "football's greatest weekend" here Aug. 7, just prior to the Detroit-Washington Hall of Fame exhibition contest.

Newcomers to the grid shrine here in professional football's birthplace are:

Otto Graham of Northwestern, sensational quarterback of the Cleveland Browns from 1946 through 1955.

Guy Chamberlin of Nebraska, player-coach from 1919 through 1928 with the Canton Bulldogs, Cleveland, Frankford Yellow-jackets, Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals.

Paddy Driscoll of Northwestern, player-coach 1919-1931 and 1941-1964 with the Chicago Cardinals and Chicago Bears.

Dr. Daniel F. Fortmann, of Colgate, 1936-46 guard with the Chicago Bears.

Sid Luckman of Columbia, 1939-1950 Chicago Bears quarterback.

Steve Van Buren of Louisiana State, 1944-1951 halfback with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Bob Waterfield of UCLA, 1945-1952 quarterback with the Cleveland and Los Angeles Rams.

Most of the new hall of famers are still active in some phase of the game.

Graham is the U.S. Coast Guard Academy head coach, and bosses the collegiate all-stars in the annual Chicago Tribune all-star game. He's 43, and the all-star contest is scheduled the day before he is inducted into the million dollar shrine.

Van Buren is head coach of the Newark Bears in the Atlantic Coast League; Driscoll and Luckman are members of the Chicago Bears coaching staff, and Dr. Fortmann, a Los Angeles surgeon, is team physician for the Rams.

Only Waterfield, who resigned two years ago as head coach of the Rams, and Chamberlin—

Johnson Inaugural Gala Starts 40 Minutes Late

WASHINGTON (AP) — The show was late in starting and producer Richard Adler was nervously whispering to an aide:

"Remember, protocol - wise, Sally Ann Howes has to first shake the President's hand, then present the flowers to Mrs. Johnson, then just greet the Humphreys."

A few minutes later a man no one knew and many thought was smashed suddenly announced over the PA system: "George O'Doyle, will you please raise your hand?" Among the 11,000 Democrats present Monday night for the inaugural gala at the National Armory it was difficult to see a hand go up or find out who O'Doyle was.

Finally, things got started only 40 minutes late. The President and his party entered while the photographers crept forward like Baluba tribesmen. Miss Howes, the producer's wife, presented her late-blooming protocols, and the show began. It had a little bit of everything.

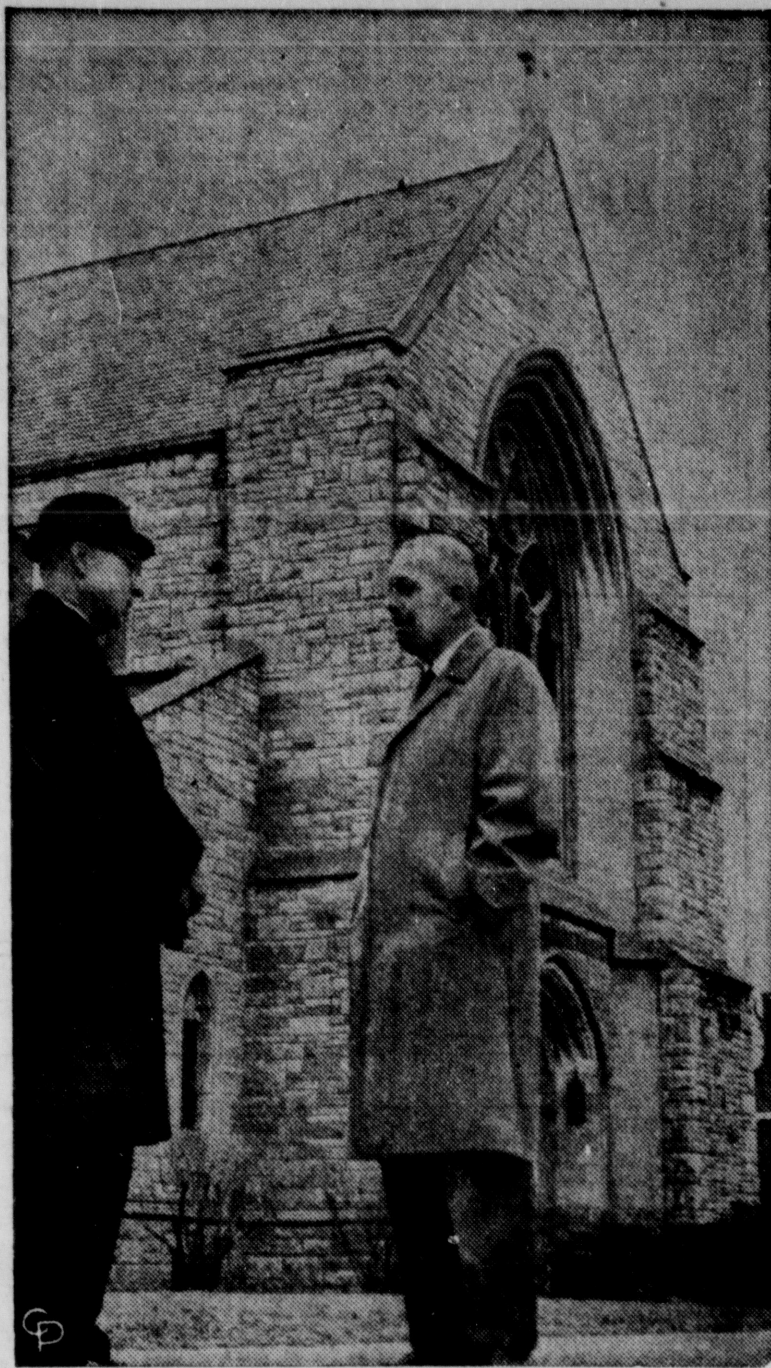

Alfred Hitchcock, the movie

director turned emcee, referred to Hubert H. Humphrey being at the "awkward age - he's no longer a senator and not yet a vice president."

Hitchcock also delivered "a word from our sponsor. Friends of the loyal opposition, do you still suffer from the Nov. 4 morning-after feeling? Do you feel that your group had all the cavities? Are you hurt because no one put you in the driver's seat. Well, now you can relax and leave the driving to us."

There were songs by Bobby Darin, including "Mack the Knife," which the emcee said was dedicated by the Army Reserve to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. There was a monologue by comic Woody Allen, who asked the President for "federal intervention marriage."

Carol Channing of "Hello Dolly" sang a new version of "Hello Lyndon" which said it was "so nice to have you here where you belong . . . you're still growing, you're still crowing . . . and who the heck is Barry what's-his-name"

HISTORIC STEP TOWARD CHRISTIAN UNITY—Dr. Richard Dempsey (right), pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church in Clinton, Iowa, and Msgr. A. J. Burke, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, stand in front of the Presbyterian church as they discuss plans for joint Catholic-Protestant services. Msgr. Burke will give the sermon in the Presbyterian church Jan. 17, and Dr. Dempsey will give the sermon in joint services at St. Mary's the next Sunday.

News of World in Brief

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Federal authorities disclosed the basis Monday for a complaint charging a Minneapolis traveling salesman threatened the life of President Johnson.

They said Everett DeHart, 38, sent a Jan. 12 letter from Corpus Christi to Dr. Jesse Barron of Minneapolis which said in part:

"Johnson killed John Fitzgerald Kennedy . . . Have made arrangements to keep my mother away from radio and television because I'm going to kill the dirty skunk."

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A thief, or maybe an overzealous souvenir seeker, has made off with the state flag from the top-mast of the battleship Alabama, now enshrined here as a memorial to war dead.

Detectives said someone lowered the flag from its position 100 feet up, unsnapped it from the lines and slipped away undetected Monday.

MORRISVILLE, Vt. (AP) — A young couple and their four daughters died early today in a fire that swept their 1½-story frame house.

The six members of the Theodore F. Corey Jr. family were dead before fire fighters arrived.

The flames and heavy smoke prevented neighbors from helping the family.

The victims: Corey, 25; his wife, Mary, 24; and their daughters, Anna Marie, 5; Beverly, 3; Mary, 2; and Betty Jean, 1.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe's government is said to have hired some 200 white mercenaries in Belgium, Spain, France and West Germany. Recruiting there is still under way.

The new recruits will join about 100 Belgian and other European mercenaries who belong to the 6th Commando unit, which has a complement of Congolese soldiers who follow the mercenary spearhead.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A Communist-led crowd of several thousand marched on the presidential palace today, demanding dismissal of a Cabinet minister they blame for the high cost of living, and calling for seizure of all foreign holdings in Indonesia.

Guards carrying submachine guns prevented the crowd from reaching the Supreme Advisory Council building where President Sukarno was meeting with the council.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam admitted today that it is having trouble with the distribution of food, raw materials and industrial products.

The disclosure was made in a long communique issued by the Central Committee of the ruling Viet Nam Workers' party, which has been examining the situation since last month. The communique was broadcast by Hanoi radio. It gave no figures, but called for increased agricultural production for export, to pay for needed imports.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., is to undergo surgery this week for removal of a blister from the aorta, the body's principal artery.

Members of the senator's family said the operation will be performed Thursday or Friday. Johnston, 68, entered Columbia Hospital Monday.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Nat King Cole has completed cobalt treatment for a lung tumor and his doctors are consulting on further treatment, says a spokesman for the singer.

The spokesman said Monday that Cole will remain in St. John's Hospital, which he entered last month.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Barry Sullivan was divorced Monday by Desiree Sumara, 26, who wept as she testified: "He was cold and unaffectionate. He never hugged and kissed me." Sullivan, 52, did not contest the suit filed by his wife, an Egyptian actress. She charged extreme mental cruelty.

The couple was married Aug. 5, 1962. The marriage was Sullivan's third and Miss Sumara's first.

Troy Cablevision Asks For Incorporation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Troy Cablevision, Inc., filed for incorporation, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown reported Monday.

Incorporators to engage in antenna services were statutory agent F. L. Shipman, Troy, and Frank Montrose, Earl C. Galbreath, Mark Knopp and C. Oscar Baker.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No 2 red wheat mostly unchanged mostly 1.37-1.40; No 2 yellow corn mostly 1 higher 1.15-1.20 per bu, mostly 1.18-1.19; No. 2 oats mostly unchanged 68 - 80, mostly 72-75; No. 1 soybeans 3 to 5 higher 2.80-2.90, mostly 2.85-2.86.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) —Three blue-ribbon congressional Reserve units were abolished by the Pentagon Monday. Some 72 congressmen and several thousand top government officials were transferred from the ready to the standby Reserve.

The move was in accord with a recent directive by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to shift into the standby Reserve those officials, judges and congressmen who would not be available for military service in mobilization because of the importance of their civilian posts.

Of the 150,000 federal personnel in the ready Reserve, it is estimated that about 5,000 fall under McNamara's order.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says U.S. assistance to Laos is "entirely justified" in view of blatant Communist violations of the 1962 Geneva agreements.

"Our agreements are designed to preserve the Geneva settlement," said press officer Robert J. McCloskey Monday, adding that the United States continues to support the accords — signed by 14 nations — which are designed to guarantee the independence and neutrality of Laos.

The State Department statement appeared to cover last Wednesday's action by U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers which knocked out a key bridge used by Communist North Viet Nam to supply forces in Laos.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has ordered a civilian employee of the Polish military attaché's office to leave the country in two weeks as a reprisal for the ouster by Communist Poland of the senior military attaché at the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw.

Col. George F. Carey Jr. was ordered out by Poland last week on charges he had photographed a Polish jet fighter base.

On Monday, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey announced that Kazimierz Mizior had been expelled for engaging in activities "incompatible with the accepted forms of official conduct." McCloskey refused to say what the alleged activities were.

The Communist government has changed the name of the small trading town of Pailiang-miao in Inner Mongolia to Tserhhanmanomininganlienhochi.

White House Keeps Mum On Presidential Planning

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson kept his calendar free of announced appointments today and, in the process, kept everyone guessing about his pre-inaugural plans for the day.

There was no word, for example, about whether Johnson would attend this evening's inaugural concert in Constitution Hall. The only certainty seemed to be that he would do more work on his inaugural address.

Apart from the concert, to feature such artists as pianist Van Cliburn and violinist Isaac Stern, the day's festivities generally were confined to receptions and parties starting in midafternoon.

The President and wife Lady Bird, she shimmering in a white gown with silver-jeweled bodice, made appearances at three events Monday night and didn't get home until midnight.

Before going to a Broadway-style inaugural gala, they made brief stops at two banquets attended by people who contributed a minimum of $1,000 to the Democratic cause in the 1964 election year.

Looking over one of these well-bankrolled audiences, Johnson joked: "This was supposed to be the first poverty inspection trip of 1965 but somehow it just didn't work out that way."

He went on to suggest that some of the diners might feel at least a little impoverished after paying the bills for their wives' gowns.

Then, sounding like the campaigner of last autumn, Johnson turned serious and urged employers and employees, farmers, ranchers and bankers to get under one big tent and work for his "Great Society" programs "in the sun of this bright age."

It may have been a preview of his inaugural address. Arriving for the gala in the National Guard Armory, a barnlike place that somehow was made to look festive, the Johnsons and their daughters, Lynda and Luci, waited a half hour in an anteroom while latecomers filed into their seats.

Once started, the show lasted a couple of hours. Johnson applauded throughout and stopped afterwards for some handshaking with the cast. He didn't make a speech; just stood up with Lady Bird and acknowledged the cheering when he was introduced after the finale.

TODAY In History

On this date In 1809, American poet and author Edgar Allan Poe was born.

In 1840, Lt. Charles Wilkes discovered the antarctic continent.

In 1819, the United States and Britain arranged a joint occupation of Oregon Territory.

In 1847, John C. Fremont became civil governor of California.

In 1942, the Japanese launched their invasion of Burma.

Ten years ago — The White House announced that President Dwight D. Eisenhower's economic report to Congress would predict a long range economic expansion.

Five years ago—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro called U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon "insolent."

One year ago — The White House reported that President Johnson would urge quick action on tax-cutting legislation in two messages to Congress.

A 10 BILLION PLUS RPM SMILE—Marden Leaver, United Air Lines' regional publicity manager, came up with this idea in San Francisco to illustrate a prediction of an optimistic 16 per cent increase in revenue passenger miles to be flown by United in 1965. That would put the RPM well over the 10 billion flown in 1964.

Alfred Hitchcock, the movie

director turned emcee, referred to Hubert H. Humphrey being at the "awkward age - he's no longer a senator and not yet a vice president."

Hitchcock also delivered "a word from our sponsor. Friends of the loyal opposition, do you still suffer from the Nov. 4 morning-after feeling? Do you feel that your group had all the cavities? Are you hurt because no one put you in the driver's seat. Well, now you can relax and leave the driving to us."

There were songs by Bobby Darin, including "Mack the Knife," which the emcee said was dedicated by the Army Reserve to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. There was a monologue by comic Woody Allen, who asked the President for "federal intervention marriage."

Carol Channing of "Hello Dolly" sang a new version of "Hello Lyndon" which said it was "so nice to have you here where you belong ... you're still growing, you're still crowing ... and who the heck is Barry what's-his-name"

News of World in Brief

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Federal authorities disclosed the basis Monday for a complaint charging a Minneapolis traveling salesman threatened the life of President Johnson.

They said Everett DeHart, 58, sent a Jan. 12 letter from Corpus Christi to Dr. Jesse Barron of Minneapolis which said in part:

"Johnson killed John Fitzgerald Kennedy ... Have made arrangements to keep my mother away from radio and television because I'm going to kill the dirty skunk."

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A thief, or maybe an overzealous souvenir seeker, has made off with the state flag from the topmost of the battleship Alabama, now enshrined here as a memorial to war dead.

Detectives said someone lowered the flag from its position 100 feet up, unsnapped it from the lines and slipped away undetected Monday.

MORRISVILLE, Vt. (AP) — A young couple and their four daughters died early today in a fire that swept their 1½-story frame house.

The six members of the Theodore F. Corey Jr. family were dead before fire fighters arrived.

The flames and heavy smoke prevented neighbors from helping the family.

The victims: Corey, 25; his wife, Mary, 24; and their daughters, Anna Marie, 5; Beverly, 3; Mary, 2; and Betty Jean, 1.

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Premier Moise Tshombe's government is said to have hired some 200 white mercenaries in Belgium, Spain, France and West Germany. Recruiting there is still under way.

The new recruits will join about 100 Belgian and other European mercenaries who belong to the 6th Commando unit, which has a complement of Congolese soldiers who follow the mercenary spearhead.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A Communist-led crowd of several thousand marched on the presidential palace today, demanding dismissal of a Cabinet minister they blame for the high cost of living, and calling for seizure of all foreign holdings in Indonesia.

Guards carrying submachine guns prevented the crowd from reaching the Supreme Advisory Council building where President Sukarno was meeting with the council.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam admitted today that it is having trouble with the distribution of food, raw materials and industrial products.

The disclosure was made in a long communique issued by the Central Committee of the ruling Viet Nam Workers' party, which has been examining the situation since last month. The communique was broadcast by Hanoi radio. It gave no figures, but called for increased agricultural production for export, to pay for needed imports.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., is to undergo surgery this week for removal of a blister from the aorta, the body's principal artery.

Members of the senator's family said the operation will be performed Thursday or Friday. Johnston, 68, entered Columbia Hospital Monday.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Nat King Cole has completed cobalt treatment for a lung tumor and his doctors are consulting on further treatment, says a spokesman for the singer.

The spokesman said Monday that Cole will remain in St. John's Hospital, which he entered last month.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Barry Sullivan was divorced Monday by Desiree Sumara, 26, who wept as she testified: "He was cold and unaffectionate. He never hugged and kissed me." Sullivan, 52, did not contest the suit filed by his wife, an Egyptian actress. She charged extreme mental cruelty.

The couple was married Aug. 5, 1962. The marriage was Sullivan's third and Miss Sumara's first.

Troy Cablevision Asks For Incorporation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Troy Cablevision, Inc., filed for incorporation, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown reported Monday.

Incorporators to engage in antenna services were statutory agent F. L. Shipman, Troy, and Frank Montross, Earl C. Galbreath, Mark Knoop and C. Oscar Baker.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three blue-ribbon congressional Reserve units were abolished by the Pentagon Monday. Some 72 congressmen and several thousand top government officials were transferred from the ready to the standby Reserve.

The move was in accord with a recent directive by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to shift into the standby Reserve those officials, judges and congressmen who would not be available for military service in mobilization because of the importance of their civilian posts.

Of the 150,000 federal personnel in the ready Reserve, it is estimated that about 5,000 fall under McNamara's order.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says U.S. assistance to Laos is "entirely justified" in view of blatant Communist violations of the 1962 Geneva agreements.

"Our agreements are designed to preserve the Geneva settlement," said press officer Robert J. McCloskey Monday, adding that the United States continues to support the accords — signed by 14 nations — which are designed to guarantee the independence and neutrality of Laos.

The State Department statement appeared to cover last Wednesday's action by U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers which knocked out a key bridge used by Communist North Viet Nam to supply forces in Laos.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has ordered a civilian employee of the Polish military attaché's office to leave the country in two weeks as a reprisal for the ouster by Communist Poland of the senior military attaché at the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw.

Col. George F. Carey Jr. was ordered out by Poland last week on charges he had photographed a Polish jet fighter base.

On Monday, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey announced that Kazimierz Mizior had been expelled for engaging in activities "incompatible with the accepted forms of official conduct." McCloskey refused to say what the alleged activities were.

The Communist government has changed the name of the small trading town of Pailiang-miao in Inner Mongolia to Tserhhaanmanomnganlienhochi.

White House Keeps Mum On Presidential Planning

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson kept his calendar free of announced appointments today and, in the process, kept everyone guessing about his pre-inaugural plans for the day.

There was no word, for example, about whether Johnson would attend this evening's inaugural concert in Constitution Hall. The only certainty seemed to be that he would do more work on his inaugural address.

Apart from the concert, to feature such artists as pianist Van Cliburn and violinist Isaac Stern, the day's festivities generally were confined to receptions and parties starting in midafternoon.

The President and wife Lady Bird, she shimmering in a white gown with silver-jeweled bodice, made appearances at three events Monday night and didn't get home until midnight.

Before going to a Broadway-style inaugural gala, they made brief stops at two banquets attended by people who contributed a minimum of $1,000 to the Democratic cause in the 1964 election year.

Looking over one of these well-bankrolled audiences, Johnson joked: "This was supposed to be the first poverty inspection trip of 1965 but somehow it just didn't work out that way."

He went on to suggest that some of the diners might feel at least a little impoverished after paying the bills for their wives' gowns.

Then, sounding like the campaigner of last autumn, Johnson turned serious and urged employers and employees, farmers, ranchers and bankers to get under one big tent and work for his "Great Society" programs "in the sun of this bright age."

It may have been a preview of his inaugural address.

Arriving for the gala in the National Guard Armory, a barnlike place that somehow was made to look festive, the Johnsons and their daughters, Lynda and Luci, waited a half hour in an anteroom while latecomers filed into their seats.

Once started, the show lasted a couple of hours. Johnson applauded throughout and stopped afterwards for some handshaking with the cast. He didn't make a speech; just stood up with Lady Bird and acknowledged the cheering when he was introduced after the finale.
